United Nations' Planes Carry Out Strafing Assault as Japanese Land Between 1,500-2,500 Men on Southeast Coast

By C. YATES McDANIEL

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, July 23 (AP)—The Japanese, in the first aggressive thrust toward Australia since their smashing Coral Sea defeat, have gained a new foothold on the southeast New Guinea coast, 100 miles across from the vital American and Australian garrisoned allied outpost at Port Moresby.

Under a terrific bombing and strafing assault from Allied planes, the enemy put ashore a force of between 1,500 and 2,500 troops Wednesday at Gona Mission, near Buna on the Papuan coast and 150 miles southeast of Japanese-held Salamaua.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced that this landing, in an area where there are no Allied forces, cost the Japanese heavily in casualties, a large transport and a landing barge sunk and a seaplane shot down. The Allies lost two fighters.

Allied airmen first spotted the small, southbound Japanese convoy picking its way along the island-dotted New Guinea coast just before dark Tuesday. They attacked immediately, scoring hits on the transport which later sank, and resumed the assault when the invaders started going ashore early Wednesday.

Commenting on the landing, Prime Minister John Curtin in Canberra said the Japanese had been working like beavers to carry out further incursions. The breathing space which followed the battle of the Coral Sea was all that the allies could have expected, he added.

The landing may easily be the signal for an intense flareup in air activity on both sides, but the allies will have one advantage in that their fighting planes can accompany their bombers to Buna. On raids on Lae and Salamaua, 165 and 190 miles respectively from Port Moresby, allied fighters were unable to accompany their bombers and have sufficient reserve left for fighting.

The Japanese Zero fighters were able, however, to accompany their bombers from these bases to Port Moresby.

Both Have Difficulty
Although it would be difficult for the Japanese to make an overland attack upon Port Moresby from Buna, it would be just as difficult for the Americans and Australians to throw them out of their new base by land attack.

This first invasion of the Papua peninsula was considered a greater threat to Port Moresby in that it put the invader closer to the allied base, but to get there overland he will find the going hard.

Facing the Japanese is the Owen Stanley range, rising above 13,000 feet and the peninsula has some of the world's most inaccessible territory.

There is no vehicular road between Port Moresby and Buna but only a few trails.

The forbidding nature of this part of Papua has been emphasized by the stories of hardship told by American bomber and fighter pilots forced down there. They had to fight off terrifying jungle creatures and insects and live for weeks on coconuts and bananas.

Port Moresby is garrisoned by Americans, including fliers and recently-arrived negro ground forces, and some of Australia's hardest and toughest fighters who have spent months accustoming themselves to semi-civilized existence in preparation for the day they'd meet the enemy hand to hand.

The Japanese twice abandoned thrusts toward the allied base through the Torres Strait, a narrow waterway between New Guinea and Cape York, Australia's northernmost extremity. The occupation of Gona Mission was the first Japanese occupation of any Southwest Pacific territory since March 10 when they

Ulster County Fair Might Be Canceled Due to City Rule

Refreshment Concession Action Prompts Agriculture Society to Hold Upon Plans

The fate of the Ulster County Agriculture Society fair which is scheduled to be held at Forsyth Park on August 19, is once more in the balance, and, this time, because of action taken by City of Kingston officials in relation to concessions for sale of refreshments at the park.

A meeting is to be held within the next few days at which time the directors of the Agricultural Society will decide definitely whether the fair can be held with the city denying the fair officials the right to operate refreshment booths.

For the past several years the concession for soft drinks, ice cream and hot dogs has been operated by the 4-H Clubs from which a considerable revenue has been derived. It has been this income which has partially made possible the holding of the fair.

Recently Mason Basch, who bid in the refreshment concession at Forsyth Park this year, petitioned the Board of Public Works for the exclusive right to sell refreshments in the park and the matter was referred to Corporation Counsel Joseph Forman for a legal determination.

The officials of the fair have been notified that the right to operate refreshment concessions has been denied them.

For many years since the Ulster County Fair has been held in this city at Forsyth Park it has been customary for the fair officials to permit the 4-H Clubs to operate the refreshment concessions, that being the only income the 4-H Clubs have and the income in the past has been of a considerable sum. On the day of the fair a large crowd attends the event and there is considerable refreshment business, some of it going to the regular park booth.

Earlier this season it was requested that county fairs be postponed or called off this season because of the emergency but later this request was modified and it was decided to hold the Ulster County Fair as usual. Now comes a second problem which may cause the cancellation of the fair.

In addition to the social portion of the fair which brings many hundreds of rural people to Kingston for the day, there is considerable business done in the city and to the exhibitors at the fair goes something like $4,700 in premium money. If the directors of the Ulster County Agricultural Society decide that elimination by city officials of the concession rights and consequent income from them will hamper the fair in all probabilities the fair will be lost to the city of Kingston.

Definite action will be taken within the next few days so that exhibitors who are now planning to enter stock or other exhibits may make suitable arrangements.

Justice Trenchard Dies

Roosevelt Signs Big Farm Bill

Washington, July 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed an appropriation bill today providing $805,000,000 for the agriculture department for the current fiscal year and authorizing sale of government-owned wheat for livestock feed and industrial uses at below parity prices.

Presidential approval climaxed a bitter congressional fight over government wheat sales and money for the farm security administration, the departmental agency charged with operation of programs designed to rehabilitate low income farm families.

Patriotic Demonstration Is to Be Held July 29; Darrah Is Chief of Defense Area

A big patriotic parade and rally will be held in Port Ewen on Wednesday evening, July 29, to show the part the citizens of the town of Esopus are playing in the present emergency.

Major General Thomas W. Darrah, director, Metropolitan District, State Council of Defense, has accepted the invitation of the committee in charge of the demonstration, to be present and take part in the exercises.

Roscoe V. Elsworth is chairman of the program committee, and he received the general's acceptance of the invitation to attend the parade and rally. Major General Darrah is chief of the defense area of which Ulster county is a part.

The event will open with the parade which will form at the intersection of the Sleighsborough road and Route 9-W and promptly at 7:15 o'clock that evening the parade will proceed over Route 9-W to Stout avenue and will disband on Bowen street.

Fire Chief Edward F. Mains of the Port Ewen fire department is the grand marshal of the parade. Following the parade patriotic exercises will be held in Ross Park in the village, and an interesting program is being arranged.

It is expected that every resident of the town of Esopus will take some part in making this parade and rally a success.

Navy Buries Nazis With Full Honors; Killed by Patrol

First Enemy Dead Given Military Requiem at Hampton; U-Boat Sunk at Sea

(By The Associated Press)

Burial with full military honors of 89 crewmen of a German submarine sunk by a destroyer on Atlantic patrol has been announced by the navy as the Associated Press unofficial count of Allied and neutral ship losses by submarines in the western Atlantic rose to 396.

Twilight requiem services, a salute of three volleys by a navy firing squad and the sounding of "Taps" marked the commitment at the National Cemetery at Hampton, Va., of the first enemy dead to be landed on American shores in this war.

One of the few naval precedents for the full military honors accorded the Germans, whose bodies and a few empty life jackets were all that remained afloat after their U-boat was sunk, occurred during the War of 1812 after a sea battle within sight of Portland, Me.

In that action, Captain William Burrows of the American brig Enterprise and Captain Samuel Blyth of His Majesty's brig Boxer were killed on September 5, 1813, and a double funeral was given the victor—Captain Burrows—and the vanquished alike. Their bodies lie side by side in ancient Eastern Cemetery overlooking Portland Harbor.

The navy declined to give further details of the sinking of the U-boat whose 89 dead were buried at Hampton, but in announcing the recent destruction of three more merchantmen declared the captain of one was machine-gunned because he refused to give the submarine commander the name of his vessel.

The skipper, Captain Finn Ager Madson, 42, of Tromsø, Norway, said at a gulph coast port that the attacking submarine fired on a dinghy carrying himself and three other crewmen from his large Norwegian merchantman and that he was hit in the arm.

The trio with him was unhurt. And 35 other crewmen of the Norwegian victim escaped in two lifeboats. The latter group landed on Devil's Island, French Guiana, but rather than face internment there pushed on to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana.

The other two vessels announced yesterday as having been sunk were an American and a British cargo carrier, the former torpedoed 650 miles off the Atlantic coast June 28 with the loss of 19 of its 37-man crew and the latter torpedoed in the Caribbean May 28 with 32 of 48 crewmen surviving.

The 18 survivors of the American victim said they owed their lives to Seaman Miles Nelson, 25, who released their lifeboats while the vessel was under attack and who was killed in so doing.

From the floating wreckage of their ship, they salvaged onions and potatoes, which they ate during their 19 days adrift and Oiler William Thompson supplemented this diet by killing some fish with an oar.

"Raw fish are delicious," he insisted, "especially after you get to like uncooked onions and potatoes."

Pilots Are Among Aid Announced

Ground Crews, Nurses and Negro Troops Also Are Among Contingent Landed

Cities Are in Peril

Rostov and Stalingrad Lie in Immediate Paths of Nazis

(By The Associated Press)

United States Army officials permitted the disclosure today that new contingents of American pilots, ground crews, negro troops and other forces whose presence in northern Ireland was announced two days ago, arrived on a large convoy—one of a series which has been bringing forces for a potential invasion of Europe.

The exact composition of the newly-arrived forces and the date of the convoy's arrival were a military secret, but the new force was one of the largest brought to Britain since the first arrival of United States forces in northern Ireland was disclosed January 26.

Aboard the ships, which carried thousands of men as well as quantities of equipment, was a large corps of nurses.

The first announcement that the new contingent of pilots from all sections of the United States had arrived quoted their commander, a 40-year-old colonel as saying: "You will hear from these fellows. They are among the best of the lot."

Meanwhile in this war's second battle of Rostov and in other bloody mass engagements farther up the meandering course of the lower Don, deep within the north Caucasian territory, Russia fought today for her life and preservation of the liaison with her allies through the Caucasus and the Middle East.

Amid clamor both in Britain and the United States for diversionary action by the allies, Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's lord privy seal, implied publicly today that Britain had some impending measure in mind.

But the nature of the supposed plan remained a secret which Sir Stafford gave the British House of Commons to understand the Churchill government would not entrust "even to 615 people"—the membership of the House.

Not since the 13th century westward invasion of Genghis Khan and his grandson, Batu Khan, and their Mongol hordes, had European Russia been so menaced as by the half-dozen spearheads with which the hosts of a modern Khan were lancing eastward and southward against the strategic waterlines of the Don bend and the Volga.

On fields of battle where the Khans once forced Russian princes to come in supplication and kiss the stirrups of their pony saddles, German invasion forces, by Russian acknowledgment, menaced Rostov from positions only 20 miles to the northeast and Stalingrad from positions about 100 miles to the west.

Against a middle section of the lower Don, roughly halfway between Rostov and Stalingrad, the enemy strove to cut his way through the river line into the Trans-Caucasus region, oil and mineral treasure house of the Soviet Union.

The Germans declared that their forces reached the outskirts of Rostov yesterday, trying to repeat from another direction last November's swift but short-lived conquest of that city guarding the estuary of the Don. Berlin said the advance continued today.

The Vichy radio quoted Stockholm reports as saying that the Germans had commenced "a massive attack" on Stalingrad, an industrial center at a lower elbow of the Volga just east of the big bend in the Don. Whether this meant that the Germans were striking at Stalingrad's immediate defenses was not clear but that seemed unlikely.

At the Egyptian end of the Middle East lifeline the British Commonwealth's Army of the Nile was unofficially reported to have progressed somewhat along the entire 40-mile front west of El Alamein. Alexandria's outlying barricade, although today's Cairo communique claimed an advance only in the center."

R.A.F. bombers, dominating the skies, continued their smashing assaults on German Marshal Rommel's forces.

Broadcasts Indicate Search Is Made for Weapons in Northern Areas

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Continued resistance against the Japanese in the Philippines is disclosed by a study of Japanese broadcasts, the Office of War Information reported today.

A systematic house-to-house search for firearms, radio transmitters and printing equipment was conducted by Japanese army detachments in the northern districts of greater Manila on July 19, O.W.I. said.

The Japanese announced confiscating such equipment as was found and offered rewards for information leading to the seizure of the material.

On July 8 Japanese military authorities prohibited all political societies and assemblies of a political nature, announcing that many Filipinos were "obstructing reconstruction."

No indication has been received from the shortwave, O.W.I. said, that any of the guerrilla units fighting in the forests of Luzon, Mindanao and other islands have accepted the Japanese appeal to surrender.

The appeal was made early in June in a broadcast which said: "Unfortunately some persons are continuing their useless resistance against the imperial Japanese forces. Stop war and surrender now."

The Tokyo radio warns that Filipino prisoners are still being held as hostages until the population shows signs of "readiness to collaborate." Sick and wounded prisoners were released on a condition.

Treasury Chief Calls Upon Senate Group to Acquire 2 1/2 Billions More

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau called for a two and one-half billion dollar boost in the tax bill today with a warning that only bold war taxation could bring America a sound economic future.

He appealed to the Senate finance committee to increase the House-approved $6,271,000,000 tax measure to a minimum of $8,700,000,000. Substantially, the administration asked the same revenue from the same sources proposed to the House months ago.

He pointed out that since these proposals were made, the schedule of war spending for the current fiscal year has been stepped up by $14,000,000,000 while the House sliced about $2,400,000,000 from the revenue measure.

"If the House bill were to become law," he said, it would be necessary to borrow from the public during this fiscal year about $3,000,000,000. To the extent that we enlist our current income in taxes to cut down this borrowing, we shall be protecting the future economic soundness of our country and our free institutions. To the extent that we fail, we shall be endangering the survival of all that we are fighting to preserve."

Compared with the House measure, Morgenthau asked new individual income taxes to be boosted from $2,872,300,000 to $3,228,000,000; additional corporate taxes, including excess profits, increased from $2,589,200,000 to $3,347,700,000; revised excise taxes to be raised from $816,800,000 to $1,253,700,000; changes in estate and gift taxes to produce $316,000,000 more.

Congressmen Are Inquiring Whether Cargo Planes Could Beat U-Boats

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Air-minded congressmen are asking admirals and merchant marine chiefs whether manufacture of cargo planes by the thousands would be the best way to beat the submarines.

They are studying a proposal by Henry J. Aiser, west coast shipbuilder and engineering authority, that several existing shipyards be devoted to construction of 5,000 giant flying boats, capable of carrying big cargoes on trans-oceanic flights.

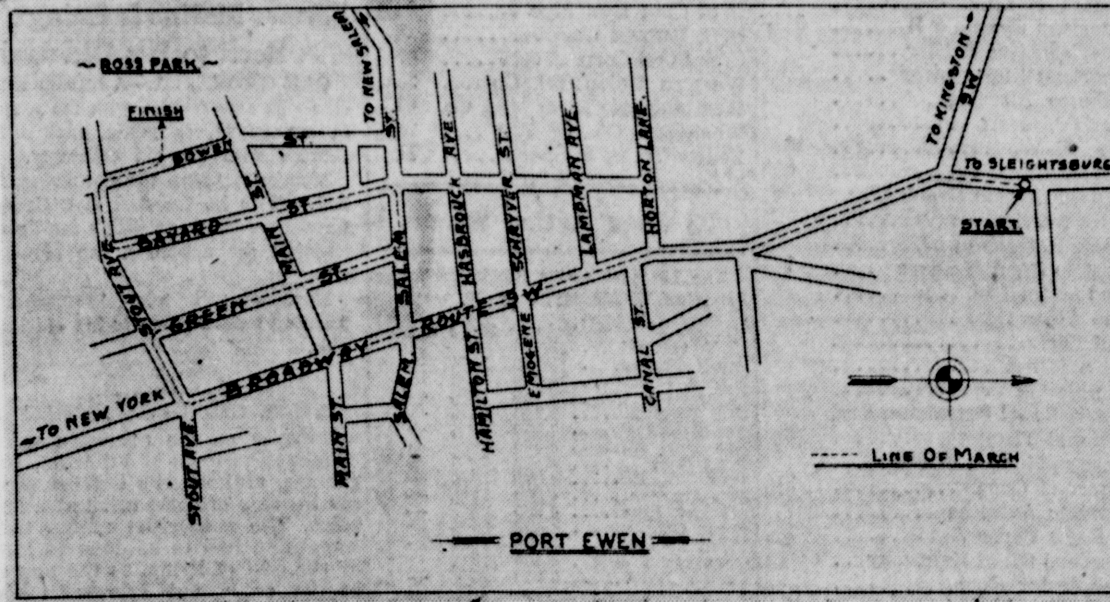

The attitude of the admirals and the deliberations of the merchant marine committee may decide whether legislation will be introduced to translate Kaiser's plan into reality.

Mott asserted that cargo planes could carry easily a large part of the freight now being transported to the United Nations in surface ships which risk attack by submarines.

Rep. Vinson, chairman of the naval committee, said, however, that "the thing to do is to keep on building ships in shipyards and planes in plane factories."

"Kaiser," he said, "should go ahead and build ships as fast as his schedule calls for, and let Glenn Martin build the flying boats. Martin can build them just as fast as the government expands his plant."

mel's armor and unflagging patrol of the battle area as the British troops consolidated inching gains of yesterday.

The Italian high command announced, however, that the British had been repelled everywhere and counterattacked, losing 800 prisoners, mostly New Zealanders and Indians, and 130 tanks destroyed on the field. Rome said the fighting had assumed a character of particular tenacity.

The Italian communiqué said that 10 Allied planes were destroyed yesterday over Egypt and Malta and that a 10,000 ton steamer was sunk by Axis air attack out of a convoy off Port Said.

The British reported seven of their planes downed over North Africa and Malta and three Axis craft destroyed.

The situation in Egypt, undoubtedly of prime importance in Allied consideration of a second front, was one of incipient threat to Alexandria but the crisis, by outward appearance, had passed.

London military experts said it was obvious that General Auchinleck's army had been heavily reinforced and was moving forward in all sectors with the intention of forcing a decisive battle. While shying from predictions, those sources seemed quietly optimistic.

The German high command said more than 1,000 prisoners had been captured and 131 British tanks destroyed, slightly larger claims than the Italians made.

Germany Is Spared

The weather spared Germany from R. A. F. attack during the night but the Germans struck at England in somewhat stronger fashion.

There were casualties and some property damage in the night raids over East Anglia and southern England and the Germans lost one plane. By daylight today a single plane laid a stick of bombs across the shopping center of an east coast town killing a number of civilians, while other raiders were active over other parts of eastern England and the eastern midlands.

The Hitler command said that German and Slovak troops—part of the million-man offensive—had penetrated fortified bridgehead positions in front of Rostov and reached the outskirts of the city.

Since Rostov lies on the north bank of the Don, near the mouth, not shielded by the river, the Germans evidently meant that they had crossed a tributary of the Don which curves half around Rostov to join the Don on the east.

This river runs less than 20 miles from Rostov on the north, passing Novocherkassk, 20 miles to the northeast. It was on the river-furrowed plateau at Novocherkassk and at Tsimlyansk, on the north bank of the Don, 130 air line miles northeast of Rostov, that the Russian communiqué located the direct threats to Rostov and the deeper Caucasus.

The Germans said that a Russian detachment cut off from retreat to Rostov had been smashed and that railways south of the Don estuary as well as Russian transport columns were under destructive night and day assault from the air.

Rostov appeared to be threatened not only from the north and northeast but also from the west by the same forces the Russians had driven 40 miles to Taganrog last fall.

Stalingrad likewise was the potential target of at least three drives, the closest being still short of the Don but near the border of Stalingrad province 80 miles away and astride the Likhaya-Stalingrad railway.

By the bright light of the half-moon Russian bombers and fighters lashed last night at the long columns of German reinforcements moving across the grainfields of the Don bend, said a Russian dispatch, but they still showed no sign of halting the German sweep.

In the Voronezh area, 300 miles north of Rostov, Russian forces were fought through streets literally paved with enemy dead in mopping up one "large settlement" south of the city where 6,000 of the foe were reported fallen. Russian counter attacks on the German north wing were said to have accounted for 9,000 more German fatalities.

A powerful German drive to recross the upper Don west of Voronezh was repulsed with destruction of 15 tanks, the Russians announced, but the Germans said Russian actions at Voronezh had failed and that 39 Russian tanks had been knocked out.

Compared to the Don valley action, activity elsewhere on the vast Russian front was of minor scale, although the Russians announced capture of "an important place" on the Leningrad front with the Germans suffering more than 1,000 casualties.

Sketches Future Peace

Nottingham, England, July 23 (AP)—Sketching the outlines of the future peace "at one of the gravest hours of the war," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today that Britain is ready to meet and work with the United States in shaping the post-war world.

In a speech which was generally regarded as the most definite pronouncement of Britain's after-war policy that has yet been made by a British statesman, Eden echoed ideas previously expressed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, and appealed to Britons to give a generous welcome to American soldiers and airmen in this country.

The future of Anglo-American friendship is "in the hands of the people of this country," he said.

New York City Produce Market

New York, July 23 (AP)—The Stock Market generally turned downward today after a feeble recovery attempt failed to get anywhere. Selling of steels dried up at the start but was resumed later. Initial come-backs of minor fractions were subsequently cancelled in many cases and declines of fractions to a point or so were the rule near the fourth hour. Dealings were relatively slow most of the time but picked at intervals.

The administration move for a much bigger tax bill, confusing war news and the thought that strong inflation controls might be in the offing helped restrain buyers. A bolstering influence, though, was the belief that many bearish developments may have been pretty well discounted.

Bonds were narrow and commodities lower. Among stocks U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic slipped after getting early support. Others included American Telephone, N. Y. Central, Westinghouse, American Can, U. S. Rubber, DuPont and Sears Roebuck.

Entertainment Unit
Camp Shelby, Miss. (AP)—The third special service battalion is undergoing intensive training here for front-line duty and expects to go overseas for one purpose—to entertain troops returning from the front. The unit, as mobile as a jeep, carries equipment weighing only seven tons. It can be packed within a couple of hours and contains everything to boost a fighting man's morale from letters from home to the latest in boogie-woogie recordings. Commanded by Captain Anthony J. Bandura, a former auditor of Minneapolis, the unit is second only to the original unit at Fort Meade, Md., home of the special service training school. The unit's work begins long before it reaches the fighting zone. The minute it boards a transport the men start making the troops as comfortable as possible. Special games have been invented that can be played in the cramped quarters of a transport, or in beds, or during a blackout. Additional equipment designed for use several miles back of the front lines includes 8,000 books, 500 records, symphonic and jive, motion picture projectors, musical and theatrical equipment, games, short-wave radio sets for receiving home programs and a public address system.

Doughboy Wins Safety Medal
Melbourne (AP)—Private John C. Boggs, Point Peter, Ga., has been awarded a safe-driving medal for driving 5,000 miles in Australia without an accident. The contest was started several weeks ago to reduce the number of automobile accidents. It was open to all army transport drivers, including Australians. Boggs' award was entered in his service record. He was also given three days' leave. Officers were instructed to consider the awards as a basis for promotions.

Save Half of Pay Increases

Rapid Expansion in Thrift Rate May Cut Inflation Survey Declares

WASHINGTON.—"Roughly 50 per cent of the expansion in consumer income during recent months has been saved," a department of commerce report says.

A review of consumer expenditures and savings for the last two years and prepared by R. B. Bangs of the department's staff says:

"It is generally recognized that the inflationary gap in 1942 will be large, but the behavior of the expenditure-income relation and the rapid growth in the rate of saving by individuals during recent months is an encouraging sign suggesting that the gap may well prove to be somewhat smaller than has been forecast by some estimators."

Contributing Factors.
Factors mentioned as contributing to the larger volume of savings include the widening of scarcities in consumers' durable goods lines, anticipation of higher tax rates and increased purchases of war bonds and stamps. There also is evidence, according to the report, that the volume of spending has been held in check by consumer resistance to rising prices. The final reason advanced is the uncertainty of many individuals over the security of their income, due to the possible spread of "priority unemployment," expansion of the armed forces and anxiety regarding the post-war job situation.

Despite the large increase in savings last year consumer expenditures rose by $10,000,000,000. More than 80 per cent of the increase in spending between January, 1941, and last January was accounted for by the rise in prices.

Expenditures Decline.
A decline in aggregate consumer expenditures in the last quarter of 1941 is noted, in the department survey. The contraction followed a buying wave prompted by the prospect of shortages, higher prices and additional federal income taxes. Some anticipatory buying also was apparent in the first two months of this year.

"Disposable income" with consumers rose from $80,000,000,000 in January, 1941, to $96,400,000,000 in January and $97,500,000,000 in February. Savings rose from $10,400,000,000 in January, 1941, to $15,900,000,000 by January of this year; and $18,400,000,000 in February. Consumption expenditure, on the other hand, rose from $72,000,000,000 in February, 1941, to only $79,100,000,000 by January, this year, and, in that month, $8,900,000,000 of the expansion was accounted for by increases in the cost of living.

Flyer Makes Wrong Turn
And Downs Nazi Plane
LONDON.—There is a Free Frenchman flying for Britain who made his first kill because he turned to the right when his flight commander said left.

With Canadians, New Zealanders and British as his brother pilots, the Frenchman was flying with a Spitfire squadron on patrol. For a time the Spitfires had the sky to themselves. Then the commander ordered a change of course.

For a moment the Free Frenchman misunderstood. He went off to the right while the remainder of the squadron went left. A Spitfire speed the Frenchman was a mile or two from his squadron when he realized his mistake.

But as he pushed open his throttle an enemy aircraft appeared ahead. The opportunity was too good to miss. The Frenchman flew close to the enemy machine; gave it several bursts from his eight machine guns and had the satisfaction of seeing the aircraft burst into flames and go down.

Locomotive Plant Beats Tank Schedule Three-Fold
PHILADELPHIA, PA.—American tanks with armor plate thicker than any Axis tanks and with deadlier armament are rolling off production lines at the Baldwin Locomotive works near here at 3 1/2 times the rate set by war department officials a year ago.

Before the year is out the flow of tanks is expected to be increased another three times over the original production schedules, army officials estimated today.

The Baldwin plant, which manufactures huge quantities of diversified war material, has increased its manpower 10 times in the last two years for special war production. At the same time it has doubled its output of locomotives for both government and private agencies.

Former Marine Is Going Back to His Old Unit
OAK GROVE, LA.—A former marine who saw service with the corps in Nicaragua, is going back into service with his old company.

Monroe Hopkins, the ex-marine, is believed to be the first Oak Grove former service man with a family to re-enlist for action in the present war.

Hopkins will take "refresher" training before going to his old line unit.

POOR GET HORSE MEAT
Because of the excessive price of meat the town of Villarino, Argentina, authorized a butcher shop for the sale of horse meat at a low price. The authorities stated that something had to be done to lower the cost of living, as the poorer people could not afford to buy beef, mutton or lamb, although the district is noted for the quantity and quality of its cattle.

Mary Cusack McManus, wife of the late John H. McManus, died at her home, 82 Johnston avenue, Wednesday evening. She is survived by a daughter, Mary C. McMan

Another Course In Training of Civilian Pilots

A new course in Civilian Pilots Training, for those who previously failed or were too old to be accepted, has been announced for applicants in this area. The former age limit of 18 to 27 has been changed to 18 to 37. Those previously rejected must obtain a term from the board where they had previously appeared, stating they had applied for examination and were not accepted.

Those who applied before and were not considered must take a mental-screening test at Taylor Hall, Vassar College, Saturday, July 25, at 9:30 o'clock. Students accepted will have all expenses paid for eight weeks at New Paltz where they will receive ground training. Flight training is taught at Reed Field, New Hackensack Road, Poughkeepsie, and at Walden Airport, Walden. This training consists of 40 hours. In addition the students will receive health and accident insurance protection.

In four to 10 months time or less a student having some flight experience, may qualify for flight instructor, airline pilot, service or glider pilot, which, with a commission, may earn a pilot $300 a month. Applicants must call or see Lou Campbell, physical instructor at New Paltz State College, before Saturday. It is expected that the courses will start within a week or two.

Equal financial partnership with husbands was one of the terms of a "square deal for wives" demanded at a Married Women's Association conference in London.

The Pinball Machines
Tacoma, Wash. (AP)—Ethics aside, even slugs apparently aren't the golden answer to beating pinball machines.

Take it from Wilfred W. Childers, 22, who received a year's federal prison sentence for possession of counterfeit coins, "not even crime can make pinball machines pay." He testified that even by investing nothing but slugs, profit was impossible. "Over a period of time I found that about 100 nickles in and 12 nickles out is how it goes." Childers testified in describing what he termed "honest machines."

OLD SHIPS MAY HELP

Can abandoned ships at Bishop Island, at the mouth of the Brisbane River, Australia, be salvaged? That is a wartime question being discussed. The island is now called "Isle of Forgotten Ships."

The biggest ship rusting in the black mud is the "Queensland," once pride of the Queensland coast. Near by are the "Stingaree," a dredge, and the "Lucinda," an old paddle-steamer. Further out is the "Bingera," first turbine steamer to carry passengers and mail between Brisbane and Townsville.

Aid Spanish Hotels

Madrid (AP)—The National Hotel Syndicate reports there are 46,846 hotels, inns, boarding houses, restaurants, cafes and bars throughout Spain, representing an investment of 6,000,000,000 pesetas and employing 230,000 persons. The hotel industry gives the treasury 350 million pesetas in taxes, so the government has recently granted hotel owners and innkeepers loans amounting to 25,000,000 pesetas at 4 per cent interest for the construction of new hotels and restaurants and the improvement of old ones. Spanish hotels were often criticized by travelers in the last century and even in the beginning of the twentieth, but they have been considerably improved since the end of the Spanish civil war. The government has decided to support the hotel industry with loans at a lower interest rate than those granted by private banks. These loans are designed for the support of small proprietors, in accordance with the national policy of aiding them in preference to the wealthier owners. The loans are payable within 35 years.

THE HOME ARSENAL

Women are being urged to consider their kitchens as "in the army now." They are to save their tin cans, taking out both ends, removing labels and washing them clean. They are to save their excess fats, putting them into covered bowls, keeping in a cool place, and turning the fats over to their butchers when they have accumulated enough to make it worth while. The family which usually throws down the drain 17 pounds of fat a year can, by turning it in, provide the makings of 85 anti-tank shells or ten pounds of dynamite.

Waste paper is not needed at present, but after the first big supply is used up, it will be needed again. Newspapers and other flat, clean papers are to be kept in piles, and tied up into reasonable armloads. The call will come for them later.

There are plenty of things to be done on the home front. "Use, but do not waste" is the motto of the day.

LOST AT HOME

One step in the wrong direction and a man is lost, in the dark, in his own home. It is a curious feeling. He can tell himself exactly where he must be. That square of dim light must be the guest room window, seen through its open door. But it isn't where it ought to be. Surely the other dim square must be the window on the stairs. His own room must be the other way. But it cannot be. His hand is on the blanket chest in the hall. But that is turned the wrong way. It cannot be turned the wrong way. Everything is different and where it ought not be.

There is only one safe procedure in this kind of confusion. Hold onto the one known object—the chest or linen cupboard door. Shut the eyes, count ten, as the Boy Scouts do. Then open them, and the chances are that the man as well as the objects will resume their normal positions in mind as well as in fact.

There is going to be a good deal of walking around in the dark before this war is over. Go slowly, feel the way. Learn the number of steps it takes to go from this known spot to another. Count stairs. It can be done. But why fall downstairs while learning?

THE POLISH TRAGEDY

In the face of the facts brought from Poland by the few people who have seen what is happening and lived to escape from that unhappy country, academic discussions of whether Americans should hate their enemies and how they should be treated after the war look rather futile. If the inhabitants of the occupied countries ever get a real chance to show the Germans what they think of them, there will not be enough German soldiers left for Americans to worry about.

As to the downtrodden masses of Germany itself, freedom, food, and watching probably will do for the elders. Freedom, food and education are necessary for the young. It will doubtless take twenty-five years or more to get the Germans into any proper frame of mind to live in a decent world. They will have to be taught with difficulty to accept liberty, decency and opportunity as natural for all men. They certainly do not accept any such dogma now. The tragedy of Poland makes that clear.

DESOLATION ISLAND

The war is coming to all places, even the most desolate and remote. No spot could be more of either than Kerguelen or (as it is more fully called) Desolation Island, 1,800 miles south and east of Madagascar, and half-way between Australia and the Cape of Good Hope. With no permanent inhabitants, this rocky, mountainous island has two good harbors, which it is suggested could be, and perhaps are, Japanese submarine bases. When Madagascar is more safely under United Nations control, it will be time to see to this French possession.

Once Kerguelen got into the news. In 1874 and 1875 it was occupied by a party of British, German and American scientists for whom this barren spot had one recommendation: it was a wonderful place from which to watch the astronomical spectacle known as the transit of Venus. May the occupancy of Kerguelen herald another spectacle: the eclipse of Hitler.

SHUTTLE PLANES

The accumulating speed with which the world is flying around is more than most minds can grasp. Here, for instance, is a civilian airplane crew of two Americans and two Canadians which has established a record of crossing the Atlantic five times in nine days in the same Liberator plane, flying freight or passengers or both on each trip.

After the two and a half round trips, the crew took three days' rest in Britain while the plane was being overhauled, then they flew back to the Canadian port ready to start over again. This crew has done more than 500 hours of trans-ocean flying in the last ninety days. There were eight trips to and from Australia.

The men and their plane go shuttling back and forth over the seven seas with as much unconcern as the little dinky train which used to go up the spur from the main junction and back again.

THE WILL TO WIN

"The people who win will be the people not only with the greatest number of weapons, but with the strongest will." So says James B. Reston, war correspondent. Thus our planes at Pearl Harbor were set on fire by Japanese aircraft so obsolete that our officers would have hesitated to send our men up in them, and our ships were sunk with a type of torpedo which we abandoned in 1938.

In short, to win this war, production is not enough. We must have will, and must be everlastingly alert.

A friend says this looks like a final showdown between God and the Devil. Well, we know which side we're on.

If summer at home seems just one heat wave after another, think of the boys in the Libyan desert.

With prices spiraling up, somebody's got to sit on 'em.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)
USE HEADS TO SAVE HEARTS

Two physicians arranged a game of golf for a certain day and hour. When the day arrived it was extremely hot, 96 degrees, with humidity high. Neither of them wanted to play because of the heat but each, not wanting to disappoint the other, said nothing and the game was played. Both were stricken within a day or two afterwards with a "heart stroke"—coronary thrombosis. One had further strokes and died, while the other is practically bed-ridden.

These men were past middle age and had good heads but did not use their heads to protect their hearts. It was not the golf or the heat that was entirely to blame but at their age, almost sixty, the bloodvessels are not elastic enough to stand heat and strenuous golf.

As men and women grow older, there is less elastic tissue in their bloodvessels and the heart and bloodvessels should not be required to push blood too hard or too rapidly through the bloodvessels.

In an effort to save the lives of our middle-aged men and women, Dr. O. P. Falk, St. Louis, in Hygeia, the Health Magazine, suggests some simple rules.

Attempt to establish a "balanced" plan of living with sufficient sleep (at least fifty hours a week) and plenty of rest periods.

Avoid hard exercise at any time and immediately following a meal.

Take some regular systematic exercise suited to middle aged needs.

Learn to do things in a leisurely way. Train yourself to do and go places with less hurry and push.

Try to cultivate complete relaxation. It is an art which must be practiced, much as one learns to play the piano.

Avoid unnecessary effort which causes you to lose the hours of rest and recreation which every middle aged person needs.

Learn to eat medium or small meals and eat them in a quiet and unhurried manner. Overuse of tea, coffee, and other caffeine drinks together with alcohol and tobacco should be avoided.

As we think of these suggestions it will be realized that it simply means a "common sense" method of living if middle-aged individuals are to prevent heart attacks. We must take the path through life in our stride using a quiet and well ordered plan. In other words, we must learn to use our heads to conserve or save our hearts.

STUDY IN SLOW MOTION

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Kingston for years has been noted as the center in the manufacture of fine cigars, and I recall that on January 31, 1916, Frederick P. Kelsey, a recognized authority on tobacco, died in his home on Pearl street.

Mr. Kelsey for years was connected with the American cigar factory on Broadway, now the Brown Service Center, and in later years he opened a cigar factory in the old carriage plant on central Broadway, adjoining the old Pallen plant.

This old carriage factory some years later was razed.

I also recall that on February 28, 1916, Joseph P. McGreener, Jr., of Boston, came to Kingston and leased the second floor of the Wieber building on lower Broadway for a cigar factory.

McGreener operated the factory until the outbreak of the first World War when he closed the plant and went back to Boston. I remember that Arthur Van DeMark of West Chestnut street, served as superintendent of the cigar factory for McGreener.

Ten years later on February 1, 1926, Miss Jessie P. Allan assumed her duties as superintendent of the Kingston Hospital, succeeding Miss Martha Morningstar. Miss Allan is still serving as the efficient superintendent of the hospital.

One of the prominent men in the medical and political life of Kingston in the years of not so long ago was the late Dr. W. H. Connelly. During the Canfield administration he served as a member of the Common Council and also as president of the council. I recall that on February 1, 1926, he was appointed a member of the police board by Mayor Morris Block to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the late William C. Shafer.

It was on February 15, 1916, that the Rev. F. W. Moot was installed as the first pastor of the Congregational Church on Abruy street, and he served that church as its pastor until his death. The Rev. Mr. Moot was very active in the religious life of the city, and it was during his pastorate that the present parsonage was erected on Abruy street, adjoining the church.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"The Just and the Unjust"

by James Gould Cozzens

"The Just and the Unjust" is the longest and the most complicated novel he has written. It attempts to do more than any of the others, and it succeeds. It has been made the August Book-of-the-Month, and will therefore have very wide distribution. But if this were not so, it may be doubted whether the public would fling any huge amount of money into Mr. Cozzens' pockets, for the novel is difficult reading.

The author uses a very old device, that of a murder trial in progress. The trial is only the framework upon which Mr. Cozzens hangs a description of a whole town, and that is meant literally. There must be hundreds of characters, and each of these, important or otherwise, is described down to the last shoelace. Since even the least important people are thus minutely presented (even the court typists, the boy in the all-night lunchroom who appears only once, the proprietor of a roadside who also is seen one time only) the balance of the novel as a whole is precarious. The reader is constantly expending his energy in blind alleys.

The next most difficult condition has to do with Mr. Cozzens and his charming view of the law. He must have studied intensely, for a third of the book is a discussion of the law and its application, sometimes its application to things completely outside the framework of the novel. Even after the book is done, there is a nine-page scene in which old Judge Coates analyzes certain legal matters.

Some other things might be mentioned, chiefly the extreme dullness of the hero's love affair. But the reader will find that out of the fog of elegantly clear pictures of Ab, the assistant district attorney upon whom the book centers; of Marty, the clever, cool, efficient district attorney; of the criminals themselves; of the two judges; of much of the town. He will know the town spiritually as well as physically, and he will have a changed and valuable conception of the law and its difficulties. Finally, he will respect the craftsmanship of the author deeply, for even if there is much useless, even confusing, work in the book, it is all good work when viewed independently. Mr. Cozzens just had a mild attack of Thomas Wolfeitis.

Today in Washington

Americans, With Safety in Hands of One Man, Have Right to Question Use of Roosevelt's Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 23 — The American people hardly realize the extent to which their national safety is in the hands of one man—the President of the United States. That being so, the American people have a right to question how the President is using his time and whether he is devoting any of it to non-essential uses.

The question becomes pertinent because in the midst of the gravest crisis in our history—with Russia in danger of being knocked out, with the Nazi submarines taking a toll of our shipping and precious cargoes that outnumber the new construction of ships, with Japanese troops occupying American territory in the Aleutian islands and with the lives of millions of American boys being risked in the theatres of war all over the globe—Mr. Roosevelt has time to carry on a second front of a political nature in the State of New York.

Whether Attorney General Bennett of the state government at Albany, a Democrat, is not as good a man for the gubernatorial nomination as Senator James M. Mead, Democrat, is something that in times like these it might be supposed could be left to the politicians and the political organizations of the empire state. Just why it should occupy one minute of the President's time, and why his name should be brought into the lists as influencing the selection of a gubernatorial nominee is difficult to understand in the light of the President's recent statement that he was too busy being President to talk politics to callers.

Yet the evidence gives some of the President does give some of his time to politics and that he has been playing an important part in the selection of a nominee for the governorship in New York state.

Maybe there's another side to the matter. If there is, few men hereabouts know it. It will be contended that the President wants a New Dealer to win the nomination and thus enable the New York state Labor Party to back such a candidate in order that Thomas E. Dewey, probable Republican nominee, will have what Mr. Roosevelt is getting ready to tell the voters of New York state not only whom to nominate for governor but whom to elect. Maybe the reason is that Mr. Roosevelt is about to make an issue of Mr. Dewey's alleged isolationist viewpoint before Pearl Harbor. But there is nothing wrong with Mr. Bennett's views on international affairs and it is not clear anyway what the governor of New York has to do with foreign policy handled by the federal government.

What probably is nearer the truth about the motivating reasons for the President's intervention in New York state politics by announcing he is for Mead against Bennett is that he wants to get someone nominated, and elected if possible, who will be a rubber stamp for organized labor unions. Mr. Roosevelt is not only favoring unions but is allowing his administration to back up the existing political regimes in most unions by means of the maintenance-of-membership clauses.

Scarcely a day passes that there is not some new evidence of the close tie-up between the administration and the labor groups. The other day, for example, reports were allowed to circulate that Mr. Roosevelt would send some sort of communication to Congress asking for power to stabilize wages and take other restrictive measures in an attempt to bring order out of the chaos that is rapidly developing on the economic front. The rumors were current last week just before the war labor board announced its decision on the "little steel" case. At that time it looked as if the unions wouldn't accept the 44-cents-a-day and would insist on the $1-a-day increase. The assumption is that the labor leaders were being threatened with restrictive legislation if they didn't fall in line. They accepted. Now lots of excuses are being found to prevent any legislation from being considered. The President has let it be known through senators that he wants to study the subject further. Senator Barkley, majority leader, after a White House conference thinks the President has enough. These are the usual devices to kill off legislation.

It may be, of course, that congressmen facing election don't want to legislate on wage or price control. Some of them might have to take a position. And that's risky for their political fortunes, which is more important than anything else evidently. Politics still permeates the Washington picture from the White House down. It's hardly the way to make a start toward winning a war.

Broaden Aim of Home Economics

Thaca, N. Y.—Changes in home economics courses in high schools to fit wartime needs, and greater service to pupils who do not study home economics, as well as to families in the community, are the aims of home economics education in New York state this coming school year.

So say Marion S. Van Liew, of the state education department at Albany, and Berenice Mallory of the office of education at Washington, D. C. They spoke at an annual home economics conference at Cornell University.

Because of the many problems which home economics teachers may give help such as a food, saving household materials, and adjustments to shortages and surpluses, are important to so many people today, most teachers will broaden their work during the next school year, the supervisors predicted.

More teaching of home nursing, of child care, and of home recreation will be given in most schools. Also more attention will be given to time schedule buying practices, care and use of household equipment, and other phases of conservation, said Miss Van Liew and Miss Mallory.

Home economics teachers this year, will strive to relate their teaching to needs of the time, Miss Van Liew said.

This year, with many families broken up and children living under tension and feeling insecure, teachers should try to make school happy, the supervisors agreed.

Miss Mallory led the conference. Others were Miss Van Liew, Dorothy Lawson, teacher, from Syracuse; Ethel M. Coan, supervisor, Albany; and Flora M. Thurston, professor of home economics education at Cornell, who arranged the program.

Others present were: Erica Christiansen, supervisor, and Mary Elsie Stone, teacher, from Syracuse; Lena B. Munger, supervisor, and Mary McCaffrey, teacher, from Utica; Mrs. Beulah F. Manley, supervisor, from Williamsport; Pa. Mrs. Lillian Perkins, supervisor from Binghamton; Frances A. Sanford, supervisor from Elmira; Christine Schamel, supervisor from Rochester; Helen M. Snyder, supervisor from Orange, New Jersey; and Anna E. Wessner, supervisor from Allentown, Pa.

Stage Coaches Return

What was good enough for grandfather has to be good enough for many of the Irish today as a result of emergency transportation restrictions. Limerick, Eire, has restored a stage coach service to Rathfriland, 18 miles away. Sailing boats are being used to carry goods the 17 miles between Oughterard and Galway on Lough Corrib.

Washington in Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The capital in wartime:

He's the head of the mimeograph and mimeograph division of one of our war agencies. He called his procurement department and told them that he had to have, as soon as possible, a can of talcum powder. (As nearly as I can get it, it is used as an ink dryer for rapid duplications.)

A week went by and no can of talcum. After his fourth frantic call, he was informed: "We are getting that from the source of supply, which is the middle west. It ought to be along any day now."

Ten days later, after numerous additional frantic pleas, the order came through—24 cans of talcum powder.

The division chief, tearing out his mustache, whisker, at a time, finally got the procurement boss on the phone. "Why," he shouted, "24 cans?"

"We save a cent a can that way," procurement answered proudly.

The m. and m. division head nearly fainted. Before hanging up the receiver, he said weakly, "But man, don't you know that 24 cans will last us exactly 24 years?"

Few congressmen who have been on the war front observation lines have made such an impression on Washington as (Sen.) Maj. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who has just returned from Egypt, where he witnessed first-hand

Rommel's drive across the Egyptian-Libyan border.

On the record and off, the Massachusetts Republican Senator has a lot to say about the performance of American tanks, desert warfare, the Nazis' SS-armored anti-tank gun, and the sly strategy of that wily desert rat, Rommel.

Even his on-the-record comments have been most revealing and what he had to report to the War Department must have been just a shade short of sensational.

Still, the Senator's military observations are just a minor flurry compared to the political whirlwind he has kicked up.

It started when Secretary of War Stimson (Republican, but all-out anti-isolationist) wrote Senator Lodge (Republican) identified as a member of the isolationist bloc, but No. 1 member of the upper house to leap into the thick of war) a highly commendatory letter, suggesting that his continued presence in the senate would be most valuable.

Senator Lodge's "up for re-election. His opponent is Rep. Joseph E. Casey (Democrat) who has been anything but isolationist. The campaign is a hot one. That letter could be vitally important.

But no sooner had the Secretary of War protested that the letter had no political significance than out came the White House with instructions to put ALL congressmen in the army, navy, etc., on inactive status.

The implication—that military-minded members of Congress are more important in the legislative body than on the war fronts.

Troopers Probe Reported Holdup Near Ellenville

Corporal Carl Lawson and Trooper Robert Denman of the B.C.I. Harris, have been investigating rumors of a holdup by armed, masked bandits, at the Kass casino property, Greenfield, early Saturday morning, July 18. The corporal said this morning that the robbery had never been reported to the state police, but that acting on rumors he and Trooper Denman had begun an investigation first of the week, although so far it had been found difficult to secure definite information on the subject.

According to the troopers a craps game is supposed to have been under way and between 2 and 3 o'clock Saturday morning seven or eight armed men, all but one of them being masked held up the good sized crowd which was present and which included a number of women.

The women were not molested, according to stories told Corporal Lawson, but the men were robbed of their cash. Reports of the amount taken by the bandits vary—from $450 to $2,000.

A car, which had been stolen in New York city, and which was found abandoned near Kiamasha Saturday, may have been one that was used by the men who raided the game.

A similar affair, which according to the troopers, was not reported to the law enforcement officers, took place on July 5 when four armed men, two of them masked, held up a game which was under way in a rebuilt barn on the Liberty-Neversink road. It was understood that at that time $1,400 was secured.

A worker at a gold smelter in Australia was discovered using a gold brick, warm from the smelter, as a foot warmer at night.

Mrs. Edward Hill was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Richter last week. Mrs. Hill is a niece of Mrs. Richter and lives in Bloomfield, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hill of Union, N. J., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Terwilliger.

Districts Tackling Erosion Problems

Ithaca, N. Y.—Six hundred farms, involving $5,000 acres, have made complete plans for combating erosion in 12 soil conservation districts of New York state.

The twelve districts include Allegany, Yates, Schuyler, Madison, Chenango, Livingston, Wyoming, Seneca, Ontario, Cattaraugus, Oneida and Schoharie. These districts began a campaign this spring, aided by the Extension Service working throughout the state, to get farmers to cultivate their fields across the slope instead of up and down it.

One county agent said that one third of the more progressive farmers have changed to cross-slope cultivation this spring. Farmers as a whole show a ten per cent reduction of the up-and-down hill method. Allegany county estimated that 10,000 acres of up-and-down hill cultivation had been changed to the cross-slope type.

Counties not yet included in districts, but with an interest in erosion control, are Onondaga, Cayuga, Erie and Chautauqua. Bankers in Erie county toured the county to see the effects of erosion control by arrangement with County Agricultural Agent Henry Paige.

A new motion picture is being made to show successful control measures on New York farms, including scenes from Carl Mott's farm near Dryden, Charles Crispell's farm at Caroline, Ernest Wright's farm in Broome county, and the Wickham and Haslett farms in Hector.

Shedding Lint

If your new rug or carpet sheds lint for a time simply sweep it up and think no more about it. It is simply the fluffing up of the fuzz or short ends left in the pile surface when the fabric is sheared in the final finishing. This fluffing will cease when all the loose material has worked its way to the surface.

During an air raid on Hull, England, a parrot taken to a Dogs Home for safety spent the time by screeching "Rule, Britannia."

Observation Post At Woodstock Is Accepted by Army

Woodstock, July 23—At an impressive ceremony at which all the "spotters" of Woodstock and their friends as well as summer visitors to the resort attended, took place at Town Hall Tuesday in honor of the army personnel from the Aircraft Warning Service of the First Fighter Command now on organizational duty in Ulster county.

Prior to the reception at Town Hall, the visitors, consisting of Staff Lieutenant John Drum, Jr., and Privates Harold Parker and R. B. Bixby, representing the army, and Harry Kirchner, sub-state civil director; Eugene P. MacConnell, district civil director; Philip Shantz, assistant district director, and Jack Rabin, A. W. S. director of publicity for Ulster county, were the guests at a dinner in their honor in the home of Miss Anita M. Smith, chief observer of Woodstock's Post, and Miss Alice Henderson.

Other guests at the dinner were Bruno Zinn; assistant C. O., Allen Cochran; Miss Isabel Dougherty, Allen DeLano, Clarence McCarthy, and Miss Gladys Hurlbut.

At the public meeting in Town Hall, the representative of the army pointed out that the prime function of the A. W. S. at "address unknown" is to receive from all the observation posts news of airplane operations, filter out, coordinate and chart information received from this area. There are similar centers, said Lieutenant Drum, all up and down both coasts of the United States, and from these centers will come the orders that will set all defense agencies in action. That is why we regard the service of the aircraft warning as the ears and eyes of the army and also is the civilians' "first line of defense."

Spotter came into intimate contact with some of the equipment actually used at the "filter board" and some of the technical terms assumed new meanings.

Woodstock's observation post now has an official name, A. W. S. 1026-A.

Unless Your Call Is Essential to the War Effort

The busiest Long Distance telephone lines in the world today are those that lead to Washington. Since Pearl Harbor, the number of calls has increased tremendously. And it is still growing. Many of these calls are essential to the war effort. Some of them, however, are not.

In normal times this increase in Long Distance traffic would be met with new circuits, central offices and other equipment. But the copper, aluminum and other materials used in new telephone construction are even more necessary for ships, planes, shells and other weapons of Victory.

That's why you are urged not to call Washington or the other busy war-activity cities, particularly Chicago, unless the need is urgent.

If you must make Long Distance calls, please do so during these least-busy hours

Before 10 A.M. 12 Noon to 2 P.M.
5 P.M. to 7 P.M. After 9 P.M.

Call by number (station-to-station) whenever you can. And please keep your conversations as brief as possible so that other important war calls can be speeded up. Your cooperation is indispensable.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, July 22—Members and friends of the Wolven family held a delightful picnic in Penning's Grove, High Woods, on Sunday.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolven and sons, Ronald and Russell of Hamden, Conn., Edna Smith and Fred Schlotter of West Haven; Pauline Post and daughter, Jean, Mr. and Mrs. George Cena and daughter, with aunts and cousins of Kingston, Clifford Wolven of Kingston; Mrs. Willard Heiser and daughter, Ruth of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolven, Mrs. Carrie Wolven, Mrs. Percy Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Wolven with their children, Robert and Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penning, Ruth Whitaker of High Woods.

Town Hall was packed to capacity on Monday evening when a symposium was held, based on the theme, "The Basis of Unity Among the United Nations." The meeting was opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Leacraft made a brief speech, and introduced the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, who presided as chairman of the evening.

Mrs. Leacraft is president of the Artists Association, who had charge of the meeting.

Mr. Todd introduced the first speaker of the evening, who was Miss Mary Van Kleek. Miss Van Kleek presented the case of Soviet Russia. Among other things she said:

"The basis for unity, among the United Nations is a world struggle to control these forces in the world in the interest of human life and human development in the world, is a people's struggle. The forces of reaction in the world undermines unity."

Speaking in the interest of the Chinese, Dr. Liu Liang Mo suggested that the peoples of the world abolish "hate, mistrust, and suspicion." He called for a second front, and was at this point greeted by storms of applause.

John Jutta speaking for England suggested that much of the ground already covered was in complete accord with his opinion, and that he could add little to it from that angle. He then referred to the matter of "The Artist and War" and called attention to work that Britain had done in the realm of employing the artist in war work.

Speaking in the interest of Yugoslavia, Mr. Lenin said "See to it that your government and other governments are not to run things without you."

"We have to forget the idea of the big exploiting the small, and vice versa." After a few brief remarks from a representative of the Dutch, the meeting was ended by John Taylor, who read a message from General de Gaulle.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, July 23 — Mrs. Wallace Mable is in Saratoga Springs for the annual convention of the Grand Temple Pythian Sisters.

The drum corps and many members of the fire company attended the convention in New Paltz on Tuesday evening of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Members of the Methodist congregation are requested to bring their church envelopes to the morning service Sunday for August as the church will be closed for vacation.

Sergeant William Windram has been transferred to the Clearing Detachment at the Signal Selective Radio School at Chicago, Ill.

The Men's Community Club softball team will play the Clinton avenue team this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Loughran Park diamond in Kingston.

Miss Doris Windram and Miss Gloria Windram are spending a week at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Kerhonkson Dedicates Its Roll of Honor

At Kerhonkson Sunday afternoon a roll of honor containing the names of 67 boys from that community who have entered the service of their country was dedicated.

The committee in charge, consisting of Abe Wideltz, Clifford L. Rall and Theodore J. Goldman, procured Clayton's Military Band of Ellenville to play during the exercises.

Included in the line of march were the American Legion, Kerhonkson Fire Co., Boy and Girl Scouts and representatives of all the local organizations.

Following the invocation by Rabbi Herbert Bloom of Kingston, the Rev. Father Nilan of Ellenville spoke about the duty of the soldier and sailor to his country and received a resounding approval from the audience of about 300 persons present.

The Rev. Mr. Coombe of Ellenville spoke about the aspects of the war. Another address was given by Chester Bradford, the county commander of the American Legion.

During the program Clifford L. Rall expressed his thanks to the following persons for their work in building this roll of honor and helping make the dedication a success: John Milk, Everett Decker, Harry Viad, Fred Osterhoudt, Herman Wood, Dan Decker and many others. The roll of honor occupies the easterly side of the Kerhonkson National Bank.

The program closed after the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Van Etten of Kerhonkson.

Pertinent Facts On Conscription

Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, has announced the receipt of a National Headquarters directive indicating lower literacy standards have been adopted by the War Department. The memorandum reads as follows:

"The War Department advises that literacy standards have been reduced so as to permit the acceptance of men who can understand simple orders in English and who possess the ability to absorb military training rapidly. Tests will be applied at the induction station to determine the acceptability of illiterate registrants. The local board will not be required to make a determination as to that qualification.

"The number of men unable to read and write English in a fourth grade standard who are accepted for induction on any day at any induction station will not exceed ten per cent of the total number of men accepted on that date."

General Brown stated the directive requires cooperative action on the part of Selective Service and the Second Corps Area to make arrangements to return to the induction station registrants previously rejected for illiteracy but who may now be acceptable.

WHO OWNS DOORSTEP MILK?

Is the customer or the dairyman legally responsible when milk is stolen from the doorstep? This question is raised in Britain because of the large increase in such thefts. It is reported in London. According to lawyers ownership of the milk passes from dairyman to consumer as soon as the bottle is placed on the doorstep or other part of the premises.

NAVY FLIER WHO GOT SEVEN JAP PLANES

The U. S. Navy credited Aviation Radioman Third Class John Liska (above), 19, of Los Angeles, with shooting down seven speedy Jap "Zero" fighting planes in two successive days of action in the battle of the Coral Sea. Liska was the rear gunner and radioman of a Navy dive bomber piloted by Lieut. John A. Leppla, who shares the credit.

Best to Simplify House Furnishings

Ithaca, N. Y.—In many homes, over-crowded conditions and irregular hours due to the war call for careful selection and arrangement of home furnishings. Here are a few suggestions from household art specialists at the New York state college of home economics:

In all rooms, have only those furnishings that the occupants need and find comfortable. If these are attractive and colorful the room can be inviting and interesting.

Keep window treatments simple. Either curtains or draperies used alone will take less time to care for than when both are used together.

Store or give away unused or unnecessary articles and knick-knacks, such as extra sofa cushions, small floor rugs, souvenirs, old photographs, broken or uncomfortable chairs, empty flower containers, unsteady tables, old magazines, extra or outgrown toys. In a busy household, dusting and caring for such objects takes too much time.

Arrange handy places to keep articles constantly used by the family, such as low storage shelves, cupboards of boxes where children may keep their toys, and low tables for their games and other work; large tables to hold lamps, newspapers, magazines, mending basket; shelves for books; chests or closets for dishes, linen, and clothing; small tables beside beds and easy chairs to hold books, as trays, and clocks.

If possible, do not store things on the floor, under the bed, or behind the door.

"TRY ZOO" ON LETTER

When a letter sorter in the Post Office in Edinburgh picked up a letter addressed to "The Keeper of the Great Seal, Scotland," he wrote across it, "Try the Zoo." It was intended for the General Register House, Princes Street, Edinburgh. More than 3,000,000 insufficiently addressed letters are now handled in Great Britain annually.

Public Is Growing Irate Over Japs in Aleutian Islands

70-Mile Gale Is Moment to Think Of Plane Exploits

Seaplane Tender, Dumpy Little Tub, Has Done Heroic Work in Wild Aleutians

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, by Chicago Times, Inc.)

Aboard U. S. Seaplane Tender in the Aleutians, June 25 (Delayed)—The wind is a wild 70-knot gale hurling whitecaps across the bay, and tonight no planes will be in the air—neither ours nor the Japanese.

The battle of the Aleutians is not yet over. The Japs are still in Kiska.

But tonight it's all right to relax a little and consider how things have been with this unglamorous little tub and her brood of lumbering PBV Catalina flying boats.

She's a little ship, old and cramped. Once she was a four-piper destroyer but they ripped out half her power plant and used the former freroms to store extra food, aviation gas, bombs and men. Then they sent her out to nurse the Cats.

Not even her most charitable friend could call her a warship. She's no more a fighting ship than are the 13-ton flying boats she serves. But the war has produced no more valorous chapter than the stubborn fight the Cats and the tender are making against the first invasion of American soil since 1812.

For Kiska, after all, is American soil. Bleak, remote, dreary and useless as it is, Kiska is still America.

The little tender lay in Dutch Harbor on June 3, when the Mitsubishi first howled through the chain, mauling Mt. Ballyhoo's crown. It was there she received her baptism of fire, and when a Zero caught a Cat on the water and burned it up the tender's crew saw the first of her charges destroyed—a heart-breaking sight, to be repeated more than once in the savage days that followed.

(One paragraph censored at this point.)

When the Jap planes went away, they left two Zeros and a Mitsubishi shot full of the tender's machine gun fire and burning on Mt. Ballyhoo's flanks.

Catalinas Flew Ceaselessly

In the days that followed, the Catalinas flew ceaselessly up and down the island chain in the eternal miasmic fogs. And where the Cats went the tender followed, lugging gasoline, fresh bombs, hot meals and a few hours shelter from one foggy danger cove to another.

Once in her uncharted wanderings I am told she caught a Jap submarine on the surface. She isn't a fighting ship as was said before, but she stopped long enough to drop four depth charges and saw the crushed undersea boat rise to the surface, roll over and sink.

(One paragraph censored at this point.)

In time the PBV crews were haggard wrecks and their planes were much better. Some men flew 102 hours in two weeks and their planes were beached for repairs only when they would fly no longer. Whenever a plane cracked up in the surf, beary-eyed repair crews stripped off its usable parts to patch planes shot to tatters by the Japs.

The Cat pilots, worn as they were, viewed with sarcastic humor the chores required of their elephantine craft. They were flying patrols and searches, fighting Zeros, carrying torpedoes and using their clumsy crates as dive bombers. A PBV is as big as a barn, and maneuvers like a battleship.

Wryly the pilots dubbed their outfit the "PBV Interceptor Command" and designated Dutch Harbor "PBV Elimination Base."

At one time quite a few hulking planes were basing on the little tender. Men took two-hour turns in the unmade bunks and then were routed out to fly their reloaded planes to Kiska—making room for other, even wearier crews to rest. The tender's cooks served meals 24 hours a day and a crew that landed judiciously could have its choice of breakfast or lunch. Mealtimes ran together and sometimes overlapped.

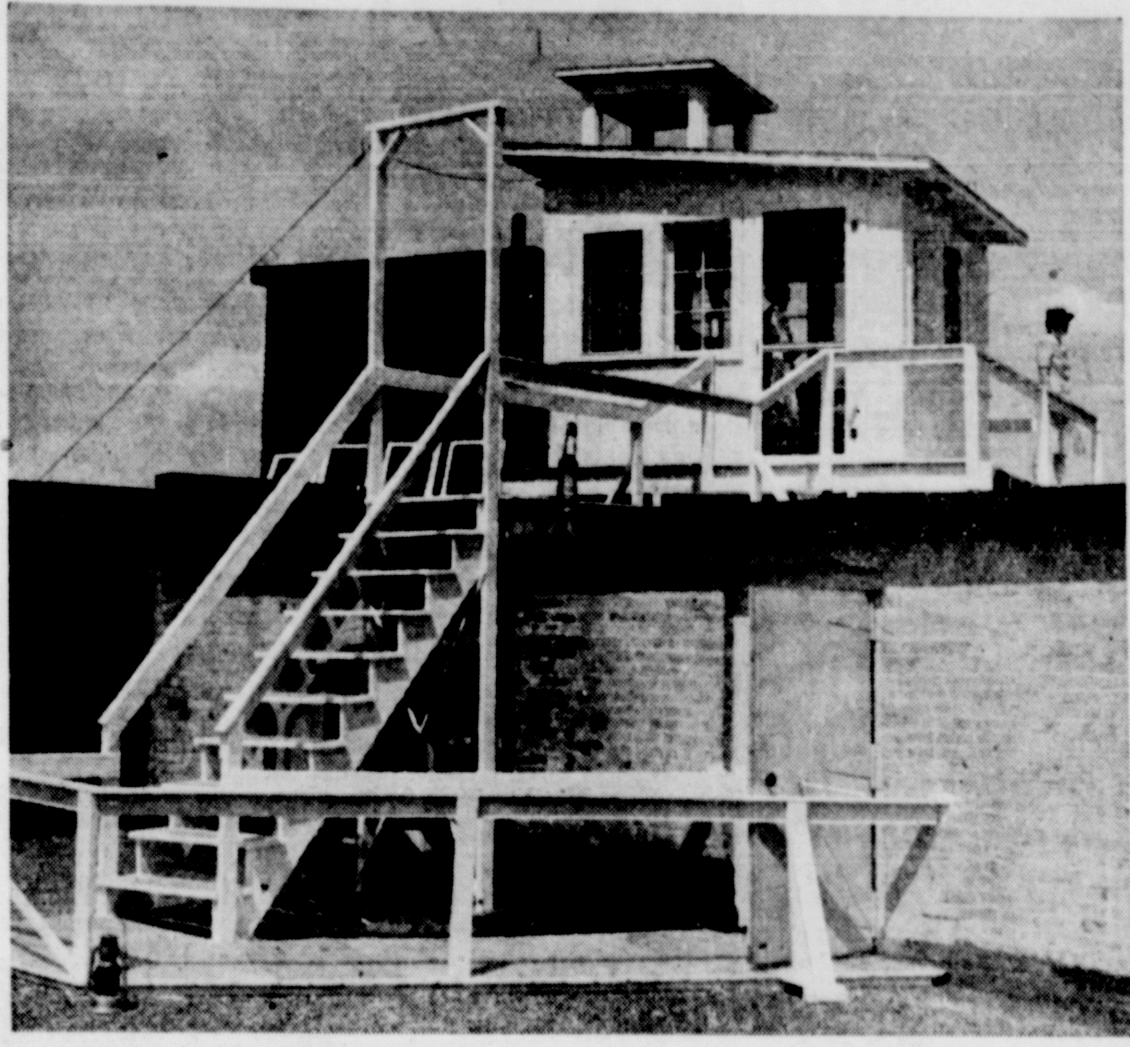

One crew flew three round trips to Kiska with only three-hour rest periods between the long hops. One PBV found itself shadowed by a faster Japanese four-motored seaplane. The Jap showed no disposition to attack and seemed willing to tag along forever. The PBV captain refused to go home and thus lead the enemy to his base. When their strange game of hide-and-seek had gone on eight hours the PBV skipper grew bored with waiting for attack and decided to bring the matter to a close. He turned to attack the Jap plane. It ran away.

They Stayed Intact

Dive bombing a PBV turned out to be something the designer had never thought about. Over Kiska the pilots would force the nose down and go rumbling through the soup like a landslide. The heavy plane would plunge into the clear over the Japs. The bombs would fall clear and both pilots

Observation Tower Atop Local Hotel

Freeman Photo

The above picture is a general view of the new observation post that has been erected on the roof of the Stuyvesant Hotel. The observation post was placed in operation for the first time on Tuesday morning shortly after midnight. Already 200 men and women have enlisted to serve two-hour shifts at the post, and it is estimated that fully 300 observers are needed to operate the post successfully. Volunteers should register with the local civilian defense office on Clinton avenue.

Michigan Prisoner Plunges to Death After Slaying Man

Lifer Spends Night on High Tower and Makes His Fatal Plunge at Daybreak

Jackson, Mich., July 23 (AP)—William Tomczik, 46-year-old southern Michigan prison lifer, plunged to death from the top of the 160-foot prison water tower about daybreak today after having spent the night there in hiding following a killing.

The convict, who had climbed the tower in flight after slaying Andrew Faust, 63-year-old operating engineer of the prison power plant, was killed instantly in his fall.

Lieutenant Howard Freeland, in charge of the night detail of guards at the prison, said Tomczik apparently had jumped from the high tower deliberately. He gave no outcry or other warning, Freeland said.

Before leaping to his death, Freeland said, the convict threw down a 12-inch knife which he had carried with him to the top of the tower and which he wielded, along with a hatchet, in killing Faust.

The guard detail was far enough from the tower so that none was periled by either the knife or the falling body.

Tomczik made his leap a few minutes after the morning bugle call at the prison at 5 o'clock, Freeland said. He had then been on the tower for about 11 hours.

Freeland said the man had blindfolded himself before leaping, either with a handkerchief or with a strip of his shirt.

Tomczik was sentenced in 1940 for killing Mrs. Sadie Banchik, 61-year-old Detroit junk operator, who employed him. The state said he bludgeoned her to death in an argument over a $3 bill and because she told him he was fired for coming to work drunk.

Sanicola Bail Set
Bail in the amount of $500 was set by Judge Caffey in the case of another Ulster County liquor defendant, Frank P. Sanicola, Jr., who is charged with the operation of a 2,350 gallon still in December, 1938, at the Salvatore Traina premises, Tuckers Corners, Plattekill. Agents also found 18,000 gallons of mash at the time of the seizure. Sanicola had pleaded not guilty in May, 1939, but failed to appear in court thereafter when wanted. A bench warrant for his arrest was issued in June, 1939.

Held for Hearings
William Freeman, 32, of Brooklyn and Lawrence Stephenson, 48, of New York city were arrested at Marlborough Wednesday by Trooper William Martin and held at the county jail for arraignment before Justice John Rusk, Jr., on charges of public intoxication.

Gets 30 Days in Jail
Grady Willis Waller of Alabama is spending 30 days in the Ulster county jail, having been sentenced by Justice John Rusk, Jr., on charges of public intoxication, following his arrest by Ellenville police.

Higgins Is Ready To Tell Full Tale

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Hopping mad over the Maritime Commission's refusal to alter its decision cancelling his contract for construction of 200 Liberty ships, Andrew J. Higgins, New Orleans boat-builder, awaited a chance to tell "the whole story" to congressmen.

"And when I'm ready to tell the whole story," Higgins told newspapermen, "I assure you gentlemen that it will not be a nice one."

After hearing the shipbuilder yesterday, the commission announced refusal to rescind its July 18 decision which cancelled the contract on the ground that shipyards, either already building vessels or soon to be in production, need all available steel.

Veteran Sailors Eager for Service

Two Score at Snug Harbor Would Quit Ease

New York, July 23 (AP)—They're old and gray now and maybe they couldn't scurry up the rigging to break out a mizzen skysail, but there's still salt in their nostrils.

And there's fire in the hearts of these two-score ancient mariners who, long before the war, settled down into soft berths at sailors' Snug Harbor, but who are going down to the sea again to help "lick Hitler."

"They thought we were too old in those days," said grizzled Charlie Nelson, who retired from the sea four years ago at 65. "Uncle Sam doesn't think so now. We all have to do our bit to lick Hitler. It has to be done."

Most of the younger seamen (those around 70) at the cozy Staten Island retreat to which they retired when they thought their days on the briny deep were over already are serving or have signed on for duty with the merchant marine or on transports flying Army and Navy flags.

Gleefully packing his duffle bag yesterday, retired Second Officer Nelson, who like most old-time sailors ran away from home at 14 to roam the seven seas, said he'd been ruled 100 per cent perfect by an army physician and was sailing soon on a transport from an American port.

"I'm signed on as third officer," he mused, "but, mind you, I don't figure I'll be a third mate for long. With my experience I wouldn't be surprised if—well, anyway, they need men like me and they'll probably want me to stay on after the war. I'm so glad to be going back."

That's how Charley Nelson and the other men on the sea whose age put them "on the beach" feel about shipping out again to help smash the Axis.

As this real-life ancient mariner bade farewell to the land berth that had been his home for four years and rolled down the street with the sailors' gait he's never lost. He almost looked like he could go aloft to set a topgallant.

Mexicans have so greatly increased their liking for wheat that they are consuming more than they raise and are sending to the United States for the extra.

Farley Says Mead Would Be Terrible As State Governor

Democratic Nomination Fight Threatens to Become Big F.D.R.-Farley Power Test

Albany, N. Y., July 23 (AP)—The battle for New York's Democratic gubernatorial nomination, which threatens to become a test of power between President Roosevelt and State Chairman James A. Farley, broke wide open today with Farley's declaration that U. S. Senator James M. Mead would "make a terrible governor."

Any doubts that Farley would vigorously oppose Mead were dispelled last night when he predicted "sure disaster" for Mead's candidacy and urged him to withdraw. The state chairman is backing Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., who already claims more than a majority of convention pledges.

Mead's "actions in his relationship with me during the past six months prove that he would be a terrible governor," Farley asserted. Farley, former national Democratic chairman, managed Roosevelt's first two presidential campaigns.

Senator Mead in announcing his candidacy yesterday claimed the President's support.

Leaving the White House yesterday Mead told reporters that the President told him:

"I am a voter in New York state but I am not a delegate to the (Democratic state) convention. If I were I would cast my vote for Jim Mead."

As Mead and Bennett forces pushed quickly to line up the presently unpledged counties in the state, the American Labor Party, whose 400,000 votes swung the last gubernatorial election balance to Democratic Governor Lehman from Republican Thomas E. Dewey, was believed ready to throw its weight behind Mead.

Lehman defeated the former district attorney by 64,000 votes Sunday night. There were 48 applications received by the caravan while in Kingston and of that number 18 men were accepted for service in the regular Navy and the U. S. Naval Reserves.

The seven men accepted Wednesday at the caravan were: Alfred Hunter of 716 Broadway; Robert J. Langley of 82 Henry street; William Leonardo of 11 Broadway; Seraphim Fidow of 20 West Union street; Stanley Nichols of Lake Katrine; Donald Hulsair of R. F. D. 2, Kingston; John Butler of 24 Hamilton street.

Officers and crew in charge of the caravan expressed great satisfaction with the welcome that had been extended them during their stay in Kingston, and the number who had been accepted for service.

Ellenville Youth Places Second in Track Meet
Ithaca, (Special)—Warren Robinson of Ellenville, a junior at Ithaca College, recently placed second in the pole vault in an intramural track meet. The meet was one of the activities held in connection with the annual coaching school for young men studying to become directors of physical education. Most of Robinson's time is spent in football coaching instruction under the direction of Coach James A. Freeman. The former Ellenville High School athlete is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Robinson of 7 Essex street, Ellenville.

Investigating a report that an automobile had been standing back of St. Peter's School building, Rosendale, for the past four days, Deputy Sheriff Leonard Bellmore found that the car was a 1937 Dodge coach, from which the license plates had been removed. The motor and serial numbers were secured and a teletype message was sent out by the Kingston Police Department.

$200 for U.S.O.
The U. S. O. War Fund was increased substantially Wednesday when a check for $200 was received from a contribution from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. Since the gas and electric company functions both in the city and county, the fund will be divided pro rata between the city and rural quotas.

Questionnaires Mailed
Kingston's draft board has mailed out questionnaires to registrants holding order numbers 11071 to 11105, inclusive. These must be filled out and returned to the board as quickly as possible.

Bensonhurst Boys Are Told to Play, But More Softly

New York, July 23 (AP)—Night falls on Bensonhurst in Brooklyn with gentle breezes from Gravesend Bay caressing the rows of two-family houses. Home owners, who moved from noisy neighborhoods to enjoy the serenity of Bensonhurst, feel happy. They dial restful music on their radios and settle into easy chairs.

"And then," went on Ralph Gabrieli, voice choked with emotion, "from the cellar of No. 144 Bay 38th street comes these terrible sounds like Dante's Inferno. Three nights a week, three hours a night. The people can't sleep. Their nerves are tight like wires."

"They told me," Gabrieli, an attorney, informed Brooklyn Supreme Court Justice Philip M. Kleinfeld yesterday in seeking an injunction to restrain Andy Masters' amateur jazz band from holding practice "jam" sessions in Andy's basement, "they told me they would be glad to chip in and pay these jazzhounds enough money so that they can hire a rehearsal hall, far away from Bensonhurst."

Practically in tears, the attorney said that not only his clients, Mr. and Mrs. Francesco Giota, an elderly couple residing two doors away from the house where the band practices, but other residents of Bensonhurst believed the youths should be restrained from "creating a disturbance, fracas, confusion and chaos."

At this point Andy Masters himself, aged 16, challenged Gabrieli's accusations.

"We would like to play for you, your honor, to show you we're not noisy. By some coincidence, all 15 of us have brought along our

Full Meaning of U.S.O. Told by Man in Service

What the U.S.O. means to the men in the armed services of the United States in its far flung theatres of war is best told by the men themselves. From men now serving in the armed forces come daily reports of the services which are rendered by the U.S.O. and in practically every instance the work of the U.S.O. is highly praised for rendering just that little touch of personal service which is most appreciated by the men who have been removed from their civilian work and transplanted in the armed forces.

Typical among these letters is one from H. Van Wyck Darrow, who gave up his position as cashier for the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston to enter the army. Mr. Darrow writes the following letter to E. Frank Flanagan in which he tells of what the U.S.O. means to him:

483rd School Squadron
Air Corps Advanced Flying School
Office of the Squadron Commander
Lake Charles, La.
July 18, 1942.

Dear Mr. Flanagan:
How is everyone up home there in the Savings & Loan. I hope you are still in business although I wonder as I haven't heard anything from any of you, and I also haven't even seen any advertising in the paper.

Things are about the same down here, warm and damp, and right now I'll bet we are getting more rain in an hour than you get up there in a month. When it rains down here it really rains although they call it Louisiana Dew.

I see the U.S.O. drive is going over pretty well, that is certainly swell because the U.S.O. if it

Coffee Stirs Up Matter in Demand For Armed Action

Alaskan Delegate Says He Has Advice 25,000 Japs Are Landed in Aleutian Isles

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

Public concern over the continued Japanese occupation of Aleutian islands appears to have mounted rapidly during the past few days, and increasingly one hears the question of just why it is that the invaders of American soil haven't been evicted.

Representative Coffee of Washington added fuel to the fire yesterday when he demanded that forces be sent to oust the Japs immediately. He declared that the invaders intend to occupy Alaska, and Alaskan Delegate Dimond, who has complained that we are being too complacent in this matter, says he has received reports that between 20,000 and 25,000 Japanese troops have been landed in the Aleutians already.

This growing anxiety undoubtedly has been stimulated by the knowledge that the Nipponese occupation of Aleutian bases not only threatens Alaska but is intimately connected with the possibility of an attack against Russian Siberia at this crucial time when the Reds are fighting for their lives (and our) at the gateway to the Caucasus. A collapse of the Bolshevik defenses in the present fierce battle might inspire the Japs to repeat their favored trick of striking without warning. The Aleutians of course lie close to Russian soil and across our line of communication with our ally.

Well, there certainly is an answer to the common presence of the enemy on the three westernmost islands of Attu, Kiska, and Agattu, but I doubt if it is what the reader would expect. One well known reason is that the weather over the Aleutians is about as filthy as you can find, and it has been bad lately. Dense fogs have shielded the Japs from air or sea attacks.

However, I believe that a more vital reason why we haven't taken stronger action is that we simply haven't had the naval force to spare.

That may seem like strong mustard, and it is, but the position is quite understandable. The ousting of the Japs is essentially a naval task, for the army can't walk on water, and while the air force can and has done great things up there in the bleak north, it can't drive the Japs out alone.

Now the navy can't be expected to undertake such a mission with a handful of ships; the job calls for a very considerable force. Thus far we haven't been able (or so I believe) to mass enough ships for the operation. Still, that shouldn't cause public surprise. We possess the ships all right, but they are spread out over the seven seas, performing mighty tasks to keep the wheels of the Allied war-machine turning.

And why don't we call in some of these ships and clean out the Aleutians? Presumably because while the authorities fully recognize the danger of the Jap occupation, that danger is less pressing than other perils which have to be met. Should an emergency develop in the Aleutians we undoubtedly should see our navy in action fast enough.

The threat from the Japanese occupation has increased since the first few slant-eyes scrambled onto one of the barren, rocky little isles. There has been no confirmation, however, of the report that twenty or twenty-five thousand of the enemy have been landed. That figure seems far too large, for the simple reason that it would require a much bigger operation than the Nipponese appear to have performed to install and supply so many men.

It's safe to say, though, that the Japs are busy consolidating their small holdings—laying out airfields and so on. They will have to be wiped out as soon as possible, and without doubt this will be done. Meanwhile our airmen are keeping them hammered down where they belong among the rocks.

Special Service

Woodstock, July 23—A special service will be held in Saint Dunstan's Church in place of the regular 11 o'clock service on Sunday morning. The service will be the traditional orthodox liturgy in the English tongue at which the Right Rev. Archimandrite Dionysios will officiate assisted by the clergy of Saint Dunstan's. Special prayers will be included for the orthodox faithful, especially of those countries where they stand so firmly against the tide of oppression and tyranny that now sweeps their homelands. Representatives of the orthodox churches of Yugoslavia, Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia will be present. The guest of honor will be the Most Rev. Bishop Reginald Grant Barrows of the African Orthodox Church.

WHAT IT MEANS

THOSE RE-ELECTION BLUES

By JOHN GROVER

Rancorous Congressional dogfights over the new tax bill and farm price legislation mirrored an acute case of pre-election jitters in the Congress.

Fair-minded political observers find much to sympathize with in the plight of Congressmen faced with tough re-election contests this year. The troubles that beset them are only in part their own fault.

Most significant single factor in the farm price battle was, of course, the administration's late but effective "big stick" crackdown that defeated the united farm front. It is strong indication that the administration, reluctantly but definitely, is committed to a farm anti-inflation policy despite the determined effort of the farm and labor blocs—the two most powerful pressure groups—to win price and wage concessions.

Basically, the congressional schism stems from the divergent beliefs of incumbent Congressmen over the most effective vote-getting techniques in the coming elections.

There's nothing reprehensible in a Congressman wanting re-election, and bending his best efforts to win another term. Any Congressman worth shucks seeks to represent his district to the end that he will be returned.

This year the electorate is confused by the magnitude of the war effort. The "safe" old rules for re-election haven't their peacetime force. One group of Congressmen, mirroring the widespread uncertainty, is nevertheless clinging to the old system. These recoil in horror from levying excessive taxes, and are willing to "go along" with the traditional farm, labor and other organized pressure groups as anchors to windward in a stormy political sea.

The other group is committed to the belief that war's upheaval has abrogated the old rules, and that the people are demanding a bold, aggressive legislative program to prosecute the war effort. These do not shrink from tax proposals which would be regarded as suicidal in a peacetime election year. They are willing to defy the powerful pressure groups in the belief that the unorganized mass of potential voters will support anti-inflationary laws designed to put the brakes on a runaway war economy.

Incumbent Congressmen are in a tough spot. This Congress and the one before have been in almost continuous session since January 3, 1939. They've worked harder than Congressmen ever did before, and in consequence have lost touch with the home folks.

Congressman Luther Patrick of Alabama, admittedly an able representative, was defeated in the June Alabama primaries. When he returned, he took the floor for 37 minutes to tell the boys about it. What he had to say scared many a Congressman pale-green.

That loss of touch with the home community is really an unfair handicap to Congressmen. Patrick said he was accused of "going high hat" because the pressure of defense business had kept him away from home so long. Others accused him of dereliction of duty for coming home for a brief campaign while Congress was in session.

He warned other Congressmen that the pensions-for-Congressmen bill got a very sour reaction from the start, but his people ignored that fact and blasted the daylight out of him in resentment against the pension plan. The Congressmen who unwarily accepted unlimited "X" cards when gas rationing was invoked also are in for a hot time, Patrick said.

He also listed other complaints of the electorate as: (a) Failure to enact "a tax program we can depend on"; (b) Failure of Congress to see to it that the people are fully informed on the progress of the war effort; (c) "Lag and drag" in Congress on prosecution of the war.

Don't think Congressmen didn't take it to heart. They now know that the pension plan and "X" card acceptance were ill-advised. Many of them know that they've got to "get right" before they go home for their campaigns, to make records that will wipe out the impression of those acts, or face defeat.

Sugar Rationing Promotes Health

Eat More Whole Wheat or Enriched Bread

Ithaca, N. Y.—"Sugar rationing is one of the best things that has happened to the people in the United States," says the New York State College of Home Economics. For better health forget sugar and eat more whole wheat or enriched bread and natural foods, it adds.

Enriched bread is made by using enriched flour or by baking with a special yeast and skim milk to provide the vitamins. Enriched flour is made by adding small amounts of two vitamins, and some iron to white flour.

According to Mrs. Linnea Dennett, of the College of Home Economics, enriched flour is not as good as whole wheat flour because it contains fewer vitamins and minerals. Dark breads of whole wheat, rye or cracked wheat should always be first choice, because they have the vitamins and minerals of the original wheat grains.

When white flour is enriched it has certain specified minimum amounts of the vitamins thiamin and niacin, and the mineral iron added to it. A third vitamin, riboflavin, and the mineral calcium may also be added to it. All these vitamins and some not yet isolated, occur in the natural wheat berry, she says.

Whole wheat flour may be used for making many baked products. It may be used in muffins, in baking-powder biscuits, and dumplings, fruit and nut breads, cookies and pie crust. Stale, whole wheat bread and cracked wheat bread given a nutty flavor and texture.

Dried whole wheat or cracked wheat bread may be used for bread crumbs in many kinds of cooking.

Timed Milking Is Urged in State

Ithaca, N. Y.—Minutes count, and that's the reason for a statewide effort among dairymen to operate their milking machines by the clock.

It's known as the Triple M, or milking-machine-management program, and benefits held out to dairymen include saving of time, just as much milk obtained, and prevention of injury to the cow. The program has the backing of dairy and animal husbandry experts both at Cornell University and the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva.

The plan is to milk each cow no longer than three to five minutes, in other words to cut the prevailing time in half. One man, for example, can milk 20 cows an hour, employing two single milking units. Cows get accustomed to this short-time milking and give as much milk as they ever did, or even more.

Milking by the clock was developed by Dr. A. C. Dahlberg at Geneva, who learned that cows can be trained to milk out rapidly without excessive hand-stripping. He found that four to five minutes of milking gave as good results as nine to ten minutes, with less likelihood of injury to the cows and less wear on the milking machine.

Massaging was eliminated, and stripping was necessary on only five to ten per cent of the cows. In a five-year period Dr. Dahlberg found no mastitis in the herd resulting from the new techniques.

Other parts of the milking machine management program are to clean and oil motors according to directions, and to wash and preserve the milking machine carefully. Farmers who have adopted the new program are asked to acquaint their neighbors with it. County agents are trying to establish at least 15 demonstration farms in each dairy county of the state, and farmers wishing to help in the demonstrations are asked to get in touch with their county agent.

Community twilight meetings are to follow. Specialists H. J. Bruce and C. G. Bradt of Cornell will visit farmers at special meetings on milking machine management.

About 51 per cent of the cows and 45 per cent of the dairies on New York dairy farms are milked with machines. In most places, it is pointed out, machines are left on the cows too long, which wastes time and injures udders. Good equipment and a standard system of cleaning and sterilizing, which are emphasized in the new program, save time, and machinery parts, and prevent rejected milk, according to the dairy specialists.

Something Old, Something New Is Home Scheme

That "something old, something new" dictum which the bride so conscientiously follows in her wedding costume may just as wisely be used in establishing her first home.

Nearly every new home today is partly furnished with things from a former home, whether it is a girlhood bedroom set that now serves in the guest room, or cherished pieces that belonged to parents. The trick is to fit them into new surroundings without too great a strain on the decor you have planned.

Usually it takes more thought and judgment to adjust odd furniture to a new home than to start with nothing and build complete rooms. But in these days, one is thrifty by choice as well as necessity, so let's consider the problem.

Color Scheme First

The first essential is to devise your color scheme, remembering that decoration takes in the room as a whole rather than corner groups or individual spots. So set up your over-all colors first—the rug, walls, ceiling, window treatments—and then get down to the particulars of furniture and smaller items.

Happily the day is past when green and rust ruled the living room. Today instead of two colors of equal value, you will combine light colors with deep tones and lively colors with muted hues, using three or four colors—or even more if you keep them in balanced relationship.

Thus in a room with walls of delicate green, and rug of darker green, you can introduce gold, rose, ivory, even a rich mulberry tone in the furniture and draperies. And here is where you can turn a neat trick in using that "comfy" chair your bridegroom brought from home, but which really looks quite shabby. Have it upholstered or slip-covered in the gay patterned fabric used for your draperies, and then set it across the room from the windows, or in a spot where the identical fabrics will help unite the room in feeling.

Contrast Draws Attention

Perhaps you are fortunate enough to have a handsome chest with heirloom prestige. Chests may most advantageously be used in living rooms, and made the center of interest when two small chairs are placed on either side. Here is where your smart sense of selectivity comes into play again, for the twin chairs should have seats of lively toned fabric or stripes, not only to contrast with the wood of your chest, but to draw attention to it. Too often a lovely piece of furniture is overlooked because of this lack of color contrast close at hand.

Just as American ingenuity is being put to work to conserve fabrics in styling clothes, and to feature foods of which there is abundance, so in homes the 1942 bride will be called upon to assemble her furnishings with a masterly taste in color harmonies and an authentic blending of periods—all on a wartime budget!

But there's lots of leeway for the maid with ideas! Even if one or more pieces do not conform to the period you hoped to establish for your living room, the feeling of that period will prevail if the majority of your furniture follows it.

Keep 'em Firing—With Junk!

Gas Rationing Stalls

Gasoline rationing resulted in chaos at the filling stations in Salisbury and Bulawayo, South Africa, when the public scrambled for supplies. One of the early victims was the minister of state who had ordered the rationing. He lined up in the queue at one service station, and when his turn was approaching he was waved away with other disappointed motorists, the pump having been emptied.

Painting British Sea Battles

Cairo (AP)—Art lovers in future years will have a chance to see how the British Navy won its victories in the Mediterranean. Lieut. Commander Rowland Langmaid, first official artist assigned to any British fleet in this war, has been given the task of putting outstanding battles on canvas. Langmaid, giving up a job as naval censor in Alexandria, says he intends to put down in black and white for photo reproduction and possible exhibition in galleries every major naval engagement. He has completed some paintings of night action in the battle of Cape Matapan and now is depicting the recent rout of a heavy Italian squadron during Malta convoy operations by cruisers commanded by Rear Admiral Philip Vian. Langmaid is 44. He studied at the Royal Academy in London and the Royal College of Art in South Kensington. His work has been exhibited at the Royal Academy and also in Philadelphia galleries.

Fair Will Benefit Woodstock Library

The Fifteenth Annual Woodstock Country Fair for the benefit of the Library will be held Thursday, July 30, on the library green from 2 p. m. until 6 o'clock.

One of the new additions to the attractions of the fair will be the surprise cartoons. Noted artists will make swift and witty sketches drawings to order. The sketches will be puzzles until the last stroke or two and Anton Refregier is chairman of this event. Norbert Heerman will be one of the artists assisting in this entertainment.

Albert Heckman, chairman, reports universal support from the artists for the new table on contributions. So far he announces works from Eugene Speicher, Al Faggi, Paul Burlin, Charles Rosen, Andrew Rueland, Conrad Cramer, Florence Cramer, Marion Bullard, Nan Mason, Carl Walters, John Taylor, and his own.

Mrs. Harvey Todd will preside at the Red Cross table and will be assisted by Mrs. Verna Walker and Mrs. Hans Cohn. There will be on display finished articles by the organization and money donations may be left for their duplication.

Mrs. Joshua Rosett will accept all small articles along with those for her "Quality" table at the old bakery where he has a preview in the windows. Clothing is to be left at the old telegraph office adjoining the "Nook" which will be open daily from 11 a. m. to 1 and from 4 o'clock to 6. Donors of large articles are asked to call Miss Alice Wardwell.

Alfred Farrell, a newcomer to the fair, will be the magician. Under the sponsorship of Miss Helen Shotwell, a spontaneous one-act play entitled "Murder at the Fair," will be given. Among the actors will be Miss Marion Lloyd, Miss Anita Smith, the villain.

In addition to those already reported as working in various capacities are: Mrs. Harry Wehle, Mrs. Louis Segal, Mrs. Stanley Crane, Mrs. Ivan Summers, Mrs. Hobart, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Edwin Franko Goldman, Mrs. Schwabach, Mrs. Engelbert Roentgen, Mrs. Hans Anderson, Miss Van der Sluis, Mrs. Barrington Wight, Mrs. Doris Fleming, Mrs. Elmer Parker, Mrs. Anita Smith, Miss Alice Henderson, Miss Millicent Sewell, Miss Babbette Bird, the Apprentice Group from the Woodstock Playhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Buttrick, Miss Maroon, Miss Elsa Kimball, Ralph Eighmey, Mrs. Bruno Zimm, Mrs. Boardman, Mrs. Walter O'Meara, Mrs. Wollie, Mrs. Braik, Clinton Parker, Bradley Tomlin, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Mrs. Charles Linden, Mrs. Charles Rosen, Miss Florence Peeper, Mrs. Elizabeth Clough, Mrs. Pearl Shultis, Mrs. Birge Harrison, Mrs. Edw. ## Presto! Dining Table Appears From Cupboard

Those living in cramped quarters which rule out a permanent dining room table may solve their riddle through use of a cupboard (14x30x59) which fits flush against the wall and requires little floor space. The door, when lowered (like an ironing board which fits into a wall space) becomes a table seating six persons. Drawers are built into the bottom of the piece, manufactured both in toasted mahogany and oak.

Design Furniture for Temporary House

For the benefit of people transferred to new locations, who are unable to find furnished homes but who do not want to invest in permanent furnishings, a large manufacturer has brought out an inexpensive living room and dinette ensemble designed to meet all temporary requirements. The basic material is fibre, although wood is used for table tops. Finish is sprayed on and several choices are available, from yellow to mottled effects.

Self-Tone Broadloom

The practical character of tone-on-tone or self-tone, broadloom is responsible for its growth in popularity. In these types the pattern is woven in lighter shades of the body color. At first only two tones were used. Then a third tone was added and now even a fourth. Accents of contrasting colors now add interest and sparkle.

The style is practical because it brings pattern interest and color to the floor, but not enough to clash when much color is used in other furnishings.

Daily Menus

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Fish for Variety

Dinner for 3 or 4

Fish Newburg

3 tablespoons butter

2 cups cooked fish

1/2 teaspoon salt

3 tablespoons paprika

2 cups milk

2 eggs yolks

1 1/2 tablespoons cooking sherry

Melt butter in frying pan, add fish, cover and cook 3 minutes over low heat. Add seasonings and flour and cook one minute.

Add milk and yolks. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and creamy. Stir in sherry and serve immediately, poured over hot toast, crisp crackers or rounds of pastry. Shrimp, crab, lobster, white fish or salmon may be used.

Medley Salad

1 cup cubed cucumbers

1/2 cup diced celery

1/2 cup cubed pickled beets

1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickles

1 teaspoon minced onion

1/4 cup French dressing

Chill ingredients. Mix lightly with fork. Serve on shredded red cabbage, lettuce or chicory.

Mocha Maple Whip

3 egg yolks

3 tablespoons flour

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/3 cup maple syrup

1/2 cup coffee (leftover)

2 cups milk

3 beaten egg whites

1 teaspoon vanilla

1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Beat yolks in double boiler. Add flour and salt. Blend and pour in syrup, coffee and milk. Cook slowly, stirring frequently until thick and creamy. Remove from heat and beat a minute. Let cool and add rest of ingredients. Mix well, chill and serve plain or with cream.

Try a pinch of poultry season in your next meat loaf, and see what a lift it gives.

HOW TO SEND OUT INVITATIONS TO MIX-AGE PARTY

A mixed-age party has an old-fashioned suggestion that is, it seems to me, as appealing as it is unusual. A letter from the hostess-to-be asks, "How shall the invitations be worded to a party being given by four members of our family: my daughter, my son and my husband and I. It will really be three parties in one to our quite separate groups of friends. Our daughter is only 15 and the boys as well as the girls she knows are no older. Our son is 25 and is invalided home. He goes back soon—one reason for the party. Could we head the invitations with their names engraved under ours, or would this be our daughter's 15th birthday? Wouldn't it be queer to include a young man's name?"

You are right, the daughter's name on an engraved card would mean that she is grown, the son's name would be impossible. If the party is to be very informal, my first suggestion is that you should find the right greeting card on which you could write "The John Browns—all four—are giving a party on Saturday, etc." I think this would be much more "inviting" as well as much more in keeping with the mixed age spirit than sending out engraved invitations. On the other hand, if you are either having invitations engraved or writing on your own husband's double cards, it would be best to enclose your daughter's ordinary visiting card in each invitation sent to her own friends, and one of your son's to his particular friends.

When Guests Are Leaving

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me, when visitors are leaving is the maid supposed to come in and stand at the door and open it when our guests leave? Or, is she supposed to help them with their wraps and then leave the hall.

Answer: She helps them first, and then stands at the door and holds it open until they have gone down the front steps, or down in the elevator of an apartment house.

First Names More Friendly

Dear Mrs. Post: We have a big old-fashioned house and have been able to invite a number of soldiers from a nearby camp to Sunday dinner. Should we call the privates, Mr. or by their first name?

Answer: To call them by their first name is much more friendly. I am taking it for granted that they are young men.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have

Gardeners Urged To Grow Nitrogen

Ithaca, N. Y. — Gardeners are urged to make sure of a nitrogen supply right in the garden, now. No one knows whether fertilizers will have the needed nitrogen next spring, according to Prof. E. Van Alstine of the agronomy department at Cornell University.

The way to get it in the soil for next year's crops is to seed legumes, he says, and he particularly recommends Ladino clover. The seed is more expensive than that of red clover and alsike clover, but two pounds to the acre is enough for a perfect stand.

It won't take long for the ground to be completely covered with a green carpet high in nitrogen fertility. Little nodules develop along the roots of runners, each filled with bacteria that take nitrogen from the air. The millions of nodules on the roots of an acre of Ladino clover furnish a mighty good source of fertility. On land where these clovers grow well, which would be in 90 out of 100 gardens, inoculation of the clover seed is not necessary. Dr. Van Alstine says. Where needed, the inoculating material, which is a special bacterial culture, is mixed with the seed before it is sown. This promotes the development of the nodules.

Gardeners can seed clover now between rows of tomatoes, corn, or any other crop that does not completely shade the ground. A pound of seed is enough to sow half an acre, and for even seeding, mix the seed with sand or granular phosphate. Rake a light covering of soil over the seed in small gardens, or drag chains behind a wheelbarrow seeder in large areas. Five hundred pounds of fresh, green clover will add to the soil as much nitrogen as is contained in 50 pounds of a 6-12-6 commercial fertilizer. Dr. Van Alstine says. A garden area that requires this amount of fertilizer would produce at least 500 pounds of Ladino clover, and perhaps from three to five times that amount if seeded now. Such a clover crop should be plowed under just before preparing a seedbed for corn, tomatoes, or some other crop seeded equally late.

"Clover will not take the place of phosphorus or potash in fertilizer, and some extra nitrogen will usually increase yields. There is no reason, however, why home gardeners should not grow part of the nitrogen supply."

Save Waste Fats, Homemakers Urged

Ithaca, N. Y., July 23.—Save and use all waste cooking fats.

This is the message to New York's rural homemakers from the nutrition committee of the state extension service at Cornell which points out that more than two billion pounds of fats are wasted in American kitchens each year.

The human body needs fat daily and when fat is scarce and low in the diet, people have been known to get fat from beechnuts, cherry and plum pits, horse chestnuts, and even tallow candles.

"Now is a good time to find ways of saving fat. If every family saved only six ounces of fat a week, the yearly saving would come to about 500 million pounds."

The committee has been asked to work with nearly 200,000 rural homemakers, in towns of 2500 or less, throughout the state. Mrs. Helen P. Hoefler, assistant state home demonstration agent leader, is in immediate charge of the program, and will be aided by home demonstration agents in the counties.

The cut-off of vegetable oils from the Far East, plus the increasing need for fats and oils for the Allies, now makes it necessary for all to save and use waste kitchen fats, she says.

"Save pan drippings from roast ham, beef, lamb and poultry. Save broiler drippings from steaks, chops, veal, and bacon. Save deep fats, whether lard or vegetable shortening, from fried potatoes, fish, doughnuts, or similar prepared foods."

"If the fat can not possibly be used in cooking food, it should be saved and sold," Mrs. Hoefler says.

The nutrition committee gives the following suggestions for saving and using fats in the home:

Meat Trimmings: Make the best use of fats bought as part of meat; it can cut down on the purchase of cooking fats.

Meat Drippings: Drippings are the residue obtained from cooking meats with dry heat, as in roasting or broiling. Fresh pork drippings can be used to season vegetables, to make gravy, or be clarified and used as lard for frying. Beef fat or drippings, if fresh and clarified, may be added to lard or other soft fat and used as the shortening in muffins, spice cake, for gravies, and in puddings. Sausage, ham, and bacon fats may be used "as is" for frying and warming foods.

Lamb fat is best used sparingly or in combination with other fats because of its strong flavor. Chicken fat may be used in place of butter and is acceptable in cream sauces, cake and cookies, and in making bread. Oil in canned fish, such as salmon, tuna, sardines, and other fish, should also be saved and used. Canned tuna has salad oil added, but the others have the natural fish oil that contains valuable vitamins. Serve it with the fish or use it in cream salad to serve with the fish or in cooked salad dressings for fish salad, or to moisten the fish for sandwich fillings.

Front Porches of U. S. Become Living Rooms

The campaign to transform America's once dull collection of front porches into glamorous "outdoor living rooms," in progress for several years, is continuing with tremendous success this summer, according to reports from stores in all sections of the country.

The reason: More people staying at home this season.

"In most of the United States the hot weather period is relatively short, and many families have made a habit of going away on vacations through at least some of these weeks," one merchant explained. "This summer—more because of the pressure of work than tire or gasoline shortages—they're staying at home, and the vacation money has paid the small cost of making the old front porch a really pleasant place."

Yards, as well as porches, have shared in the upswing, the reports show. Furniture designed for use on the lawn has enjoyed an unprecedented demand.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Double Trouble
Newark, N. J. — It wasn't enough that thieves stole three tires, two wheels and the battery from Francis Murphy's car and drained the gasoline tank dry. He also found a police summons for overtime parking attached to the windshield.

Wreckless Driving
Albuquerque, N. M. — Judge E. C. Golder heard officers testify about the driver's speed, and fined the man $100 for driving while intoxicated. Nobody, declared the judge, could be sober and drive at that speed—a consistent three miles per hour.

Applause, Plus
Chicago—Corp. Julian Leviton, of Fort Custer, Mich., playing the Tschakowsky B Flat Minor Piano Concerto at a Grant Park band concert, received a wave of enthusiastic applause—and a bag of cookies.

Help
Chicago—Verne Hotzfeld, 37, filing suit for divorce, sought court orders to restrain his wife, Vera, from injuring him while he obtained his pants from his home. Wearing borrowed pants and shirt, Hotzfeld exhibited black and blue marks which he said his wife, also 37, inflicted when she slapped him and bounced a flower pot off his head.

Long Race
Albany, N. Y. — Elmer Rate's racing pigeon was the only Albany bird to complete a 510-mile flight here from Danville, Va. The pigeon took three days for the hop, winning the event.

No Sabotage
Troy, N. Y. — Police sped to the Congress street bridge, after receiving a report a saboteur was photographing the structure. They found Jack Short, a newspaper photographer on assignment, snapping a boating scene.

NERVES COST A WIFE
Because his nerves always failed him, Jarvis Torrance, 31, told a Glasgow, Scotland, court, he could not keep his job as a ship's plumber. Instead, he sat at home playing a one-man band and reading while his wife worked. The court sent Torrance to prison for 14 days on a charge of wife assault and Mrs. Torrance applied for an order for separation.

PLEADS INNOCENT TO ESPIONAGE CHARGE

Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr (in light suit), 29, of Buffalo, handcuffed between two deputy United States Marshals, enters the Federal Building, Newark, N. J., where he pleaded innocent to an indictment charging him with conspiracy to commit espionage. Bahr was arrested aboard the diplomatic exchange ship Drottningholm.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, July 22—Monday afternoons from now on the rooms at the Gansse Health Center will be open for Red Cross sewing. There is a need of baby clothes and sleeping garments.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dick and daughter, Lorraine, spent the week-end at North Lake. Dr. Carl Meekie drove over Sunday to see his father at Shelderville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dowd and son have moved from the Mrs. J. D. Rose house on upper Main street to rooms in the Dr. Blakely house on Church street. Mr. and Mrs. George Burton and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Tucky of Bainbridge were Saturday night and Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burton. Mr. Burton and Mrs. Tucky are brother and sister of Richard Burton.

Cecil Burger, who is employed in Torrington, Conn., was at his home here for over Sunday. Miss Dorothy Donovan has returned after a week spent at Williams Lake.

Mrs. Thomas Hopper has received word of the safe arrival of her son, Vincent Hopper, at some unknown destination. George Muller, Jr., who has work in Hartford, Conn., was home for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Shonts of Yonkers were Saturday night guests at the home of her brother, C. W. Rathgeb. Mrs. Betty Sohrweide and daughter, Mrs. Lucie Nelson, and Miss Grace Smith returned to New York Monday after a week-end spent at their home here.

The U. D. Society will have blocks for two more afghans and there was discussion at the meeting Saturday as to using them locally. Of nearly 30 made over a period of years the larger number of them have gone to the soldiers in the hospital at Chelsea. Although the day was extremely warm those present were Mrs. A. Jerome Pratt, Mrs. Howard E. Wilcox, Mrs. J. W. Feeter, Mrs. G. H. Mackey, Mrs. A. W. Williams, Miss Julia Van Kuren, Mrs. Franklin Welker, Mrs. Philip Schantz, Mrs. Charles Farnham, Mrs. Fred Wilkow, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. Alfred Lane, Miss Belle Brinckerhoff and the hostess, Mrs. Joseph Mellor.

Dr. and Mrs. Victor P. Salvatore returned Tuesday from a few days spent at Silver Bay. Miss Dorothy Haight of Poughkeepsie spent Sunday with relatives in town.

The former Raymond Rordan School grounds and buildings are now occupied by 145 boys and girls representing the Orphan Society of Brooklyn, and they arrived July 1. The many buildings and camp sites are located on Chodokee Lake and is an ideal spot for the purpose. The children are between three and 18 years of age. Wilfred C. Ackery is the director. There are seven groups, each group with a superintendent or supervisor. There are two relief supervisors and two nurses. Four senior counselors from the New Palitz State College are: Misses Margaret Lent, Evelyn Bardsley, Vera Gallick and Robert Reismann. They instruct in the crafts, music and girl's recreation. Also nine junior counselors and six adults who have the care of the grounds, buildings and meals.

Albert Roberts returned Sunday to Fort Bragg after a ten-day furlough spent here. Julius Dapp and Thomas Braccia were among those who left last week for induction in the service. Harold Enoch Seaman of Croton Falls visited his mother, Mrs. Rose Seaman, last week.

ANIMALS SHARE IN WAR
Animals are sharing the burden in man's war, it is pointed out in London, where the British War Office was appealing for dogs not long ago. Horses of the Cossack cavalry have been charging over blood-stained battlefields of Russia. In the jungles the Japanese have used elephants for military transport, and carrier pigeons have saved the lives of airmen brought down in the sea. London heard the American Army is paying more for a mule than a horse and is adding 15,000 to its original quota of 7,000 mules.

Full Meaning of U.S.O. Told by Man in Service

functions all over the country as it does here it can't be beat.

The U.S.O. building down here is a nice large building, has ping-pong tables, pool tables, writing tables, a piano and plenty to read and lots of paper to write with and certainly is used a lot by all the members of this post.

They have movies one night a week, free, and an informal dance on Wednesday night, with a formal dance on Saturday night, contests on Thursday night in ping pong and pool with a steak dinner to the winner, and operate a beach right near town for swimming. On Sundays they give out invitations to fellows to go to dinner at some private home in town and in all do a swell job for entertainment.

They are organizing a club now for the married soldiers here who have their wives with them, and don't have the money to spend on entertainment and such things. They are going to arrange a fishing trip for us some Sunday afternoon, and some arrangement for us to get together and get to know each other.

If it wasn't for the damp climate down here this would be a swell spot to be. However with the humidity it makes it tough. It takes all the pep out of you. You go to sleep at night sweating, and wake up in the morning the same way.

How is Crackers this summer, is he getting the rash just the same as last year. Most everyone down here seems to get a heat rash and I have found that Mexican powder seems to kill it as well as anything.

Just how long we will remain at this field no one knows, but I would just as soon stay here as to move to some other field, unless it were to Stewart Field in Newburgh. I think the fellows here from Newburgh, Poughkeepsie and Kingston would just about pass out if the order were given to transfer us to that place. I would even pay my own transportation back to get up there.

Give my regards to all members of the board and tell them that I would like to be back there doing a little work and that I hope they keep the job open all right, cause I don't think that I will stay in the army after this is over, although I like it O.K.

Have to stop now and go to work so don't work too hard and let me know if there is anything I can do for you on this end.

VAN.

Bensonhurst Boys Are Told to Play, But More Softly

instruments and if your honor wishes.

"No, No!" snapped the judge. "It isn't necessary for you boys to play. I am able to imagine what you sound like."

"They play only jitterbug jazz music," chimed in Gabrielli. "They are a gang of jitterbug jazzhouse youngsters. They practice all the rip-roaring Broadway jazz numbers. They are driving every one crazy!"

But it was no good. The judge denied the injunction, cautioned the boys to play more quietly and if possible to "stop up the windows of the cellar or something."

"I'd rather see you develop into good musicians than hang out in poolrooms or on the street and become loafers," he said.

Joseph C. Victor, attorney for the band, declared he would confer with Gabrielli on the business of the neighbors paying for a rehearsal hall, and it looks like Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, might be quiet again.

Mr. and Mrs. Giota weren't in court.

Gabrielli said they both had headaches.

70-Mile Gale Is Moment to Think Of Plane Exploits

would have to heave back on the yoke to pull their plummeting juggernaut out of its dive. The big boats would pull out with their long panels flapping like a seagull's wings and nobody knows how they hung together.

One plane shadowed a Japanese carrier 16 hours, ducking in and out of the soup. Finally a Zero closed with him and shot off his rudder. He gave up then and flew home, unable to turn except with aileron control. His crippled plane gave up almost within sight of the base and he landed at sea. A patrol boat rescued the crew.

Another plane was cruising along just under the clouds when the pilot heard gunfire. He thought his own gunners were testing their weapons but changed his mind when he looked around and saw tracers crisscrossing the two feet of space between himself and the navigator.

An aerial cannon shot carried away a wing strut and other bullets slashed open the gas tanks. One man was hit in the leg. The pilot plunged for a cloud, eluded the three Japs on his tail and started home.

Three hours later the last gas ran out through bullet holes and they came down at sea. Despite efforts to plug the holes with band-aids and cotton the bullet-torn hull sank and the crew took to their rubber boats. They were rescued the next day.

Another plane dodged six hunting Zeros for two hours and finally eluded them. Every time he came out of the soup he saw Zeros. But his gas outlasted theirs and finally he went back to shadowing the Jap ships.

The time finally came when the tender and her Cats could no longer maintain their precarious location. They loaded the flying boats with the last of the gasoline, took aboard the villagers, two white men, one white woman and a dozen or so Aleuts, burned the village and pulled out.

Now, reprovisioned, refueled and ready for more, they're settled in another base, ready to fight or move without notice.

Edward James Smyth of New York.

Oscar Brumback of Washington and Luray, Va.

Elph Townsend of San Francisco, Lake Geneva, Wis., and Washington.

William Robert Lyman, Jr., alias Robert Lanham, of Detroit.

Donald McDaniel of Chicago.

Otto Brennermann, known also as Otto Brennermann, of Chicago.

The defendants have been taken into custody in their own localities and all will be brought to Washington for trial, Biddle said.

The defendants include three already under indictment for sedition and four who have been convicted, two for sedition and two for violating the Foreign Espionage Registration Act.

The indictment alleged that the defendants conspired to urge upon members of the United States armed forces that the United States was safe from attack and that confidence in American public officials was misplaced and unwarranted "for the purpose of obstructing, and designed and intended to impede, obstruct and defeat the preparation of our national defenses against aggression and invasion and the national war effort."

The defendants were charged also with having carried on "a systematic campaign of personal vilification and defamation of the public officials of the United States government" in order to convince members of the armed forces that "such public officials are traitorous," corrupt, dishonest, incompetent, un-American, and mentally unbalanced."

At the same time, the defendants were alleged to have propagandized the armed forces to show that the Axis powers did not constitute a real danger to the United States, had no intention of threatening the United States, that expansion of the armed forces was unnecessary, and that American public officials sought to "provoke" war with "peaceful nations, such as Germany, Italy and Japan."

Brief Identification

The Justice Department provided a brief identification of each defendant which included:

Asher, publisher of "X-Ray," the mailing privilege of which was revoked June 8.

Baxter, organizer of Social Republic Society, known as Socis.

Brennermann, an artist, whose pictures were distributed by the Bund and by other defendants and who appeared in now-banned publications.

Broenstrup, attorney for Pelley and an associate of Edmondson.

Brumback, organizer of the No Foreign War Coalition, Inc.

Dennett, organizer with Viereck and others, of the Make Europe Pay War Debts Committee.

De Aryan, publisher of "The Broom."

De Priest, a writer for Winrod, publisher of "The Defender."

Diebel, proprietor of the Aryan Book Store, which advertised in "World Service," published at Erfurt, Germany.

Mrs. Dilling, author of "The Red Network," "Patriotic Research Bureau News Letter" and others.

The Garners, editors of "Publicity," both of whom have been indicted for sedition.

Edmondson, a writer for Sanctuary and Winrod.

Griffin, publisher of the "New York Enquirer."

Hudson, editor and publisher of "America in Danger!"

Jones and Noble, associates in the organization of the Friends of Progress, both of whom were sentenced for sedition at Los Angeles last month.

Kuligren, publisher of "The Beacon's Light."

Lyman, a distributor of pictures for Brennermann and an officer of the National Workers League (Detroit) and a member of Socis.

McDaniel, a dentist who financed and distributed Brennermann's pictures.

Pelley, leader of the Silver Shirts and publisher of "The Gallant," which suspended in March. He goes on trial for sedition at Indianapolis July 28.

Sanctuary, writer for several publications, including "The Defender."

Smyth, writer of a column for "Publicity."

Schwinn, a west coast Bund leader and a member of the Silver Shirts.

Townsend, a contributor to "Scribner's Commentator." He was sentenced in June for failure to register as an agent for Japan.

True, publisher of "Industrial Control Reports," and organizer of James True Associates.

Viereck, for many years a propagandist for Germany, who was convicted of violation of the Foreign Espionage Registration Act.

The publications which the indictment charged were used in the conspiracy included:

The New York Enquirer, The Defender, The Octopus, The Gallant, X-Ray, Publicity, Beacon Light, The Roll Call, Weckruf and Seebacher (also known as The Free American), Industrial Control Reports, World Service

Missing at Sea

ARTHUR D. VAN ETEN

Arthur Dean Van Etten, 20-year-old son of Mrs. Edward Buckley of Saugerties, is reported missing at sea according to a telegram received Wednesday from the Isthmian Steamship Co. by whom young Van Etten was employed as a seaman aboard one of the company ships. No additional information was contained in the message.

Last winter before the United States entered the war Arthur D. Van Etten was aboard the Steel Seafarer when that vessel was sunk in the Red Sea. Members of the crew were saved at that time and young Van Etten eventually arrived in Egypt and later reached the United States where he signed up again with the Merchant Marine, after visiting his folk in Saugerties.

The message to his mother simply said that the vessel on which he had shipped was missing and no word had come from the crew. He left Saugerties about three months ago.

Earl, a twin brother, was also in the Merchant Marine and while aboard one of the Isthmian vessels was taken ill and landed at Cape Town, Africa, where an emergency operation was performed. He failed to survive the ordeal and his mother was notified of his death several months ago. Earl was on the same ship with Fred Van Voorhis of Saugerties who is also a member of the Merchant Marine.

Mrs. Buckley was away on a visit when the telegram was received and her husband left Saugerties immediately to notify her of the fact that Arthur was reported missing at sea.

Huben Addresses Club

Edward M. Huben, commercial representative of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ellenville Noonday Club last week. He discussed the advantages of the Ulster-Greene vacationland and progress that had been made in making residents of the metropolitan area familiar with its charm and the delights that awaited those who made it their summer vacation mecca. Mr. Huben was pleased to find that the Noonday Club had been taking an active interest in the matter and that the town had made an appropriation for publicity purposes.

YOUR FOOD—AND NUTRITION

Good health is more than the absence of disease. Good health means energy for work, stamina to endure prolonged effort and hardship, steady nerves to meet all conditions. A high standard of health of the whole population is doubly necessary in wartime. Foods which contain protein, carbohydrates and fats, minerals and vitamins make up a well-balanced diet. A substantial serving of meat adds protein, minerals and vitamins as well as calories to the diet.

One hot dish should be served at each meal even on a hot day, health experts tell us. Frequently, that is the meat course. But the hot dish may be soup, or a vegetable casserole, and the meat may be served deliciously, temptingly cold.

A meat loaf, chilled and sliced thin, served with tomato quarters and pickle or other fresh vegetables, is tasty and at the same time economical. It is also high in food value a point to be remembered for we need nutritious food as much to withstand hot weather as to combat the cold, though sometimes our appetites don't tell us

Meat Loaf Served Cold

that. And though we may eat a smaller quantity of food, it should be high in food value.

One advantage to the busy homemaker of serving meat loaf cold is that it may be made at her convenience, the day before it is to be used, or in the morning, and kept in the refrigerator. This makes meat loaf a good main dish for a company meal or any other meal you may wish to prepare in the easiest way.

For a meat loaf to be served cold, one containing plenty of flavor is best. Here are some suggestions for tasty combinations.

Piquant Meat Loaf

2 pounds ground beef
1/2 pound chopped bologna
1 cup moist cracker or bread crumbs
1 cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon grated onion
2 eggs, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper

Slices of American cheese
Have beef and bologna ground together. Add the cracker or bread crumbs, grated onion, slightly beaten eggs and chili sauce. Season with salt and pepper and pack into a loaf pan. Over the top lay thin slices of American cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until done, about one hour.

Lamb Loaf

2 pounds ground lamb
1 cup bread crumbs
1 onion, finely minced
1/2 green pepper, finely minced
1 cup meat stock or milk
1 egg
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper
Combine ground lamb, bread crumbs and seasonings. Moisten with slightly beaten egg and meat stock or milk. Pack into loaf pan or ring mold. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until done, about one and a half hours.

Gets Day in Jail

Macon F. Bailey, a negro of Great Notch, N. J., was arrested Wednesday night by the police on a charge of public intoxication. This morning in police court Judge Matthew V. Cahill sentenced him to one day in jail.

Promoted to Sergeant

Word just received from Millard R. Cox in Australia, where he is attached to the quartermaster's battalion, U. S. Army, notes that on June 1 he was promoted to the rank of sergeant technician.

Knows The South Pacific

Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—For one flying officer in America's fighting forces, the South Pacific war zones will be familiar ground. He is 2d Lieut. Rupert H. Beatty, now finishing his training at the flying school here.

Lieut. Beatty entered the service in 1937 and was sent to Hawaii's Hickam Field, in charge of radio communications. In 1939 he was assigned by the Department of Interior as a junior meteorologist to gather weather and tide data for commercial airlines operating from San Francisco to New Zealand.

This work took him through the Phoenix, Canton, Samoa and New Caledonia islands. During these months he established radio communication with the inhabitants of tiny Pitcairn island, famed hiding place of the mutineers of H. M. S. Bounty.

Seen hiding under goods, a nine-foot poisonous black mamba rode in a freight train from Umtweni to Port Shepstone, South Africa, before it could be shot.

Peru is to have a tire factory utilizing Peruvian rubber.

First Quartermaster Corps Consisted of Only Two Men

It was June 18, 1775—more than a year before the signing of the Declaration of Independence—when the Continental congress authorized the establishment of a quartermaster department, headed by Maj. Gen. Thomas Mifflin. At that time the corps consisted of two men, General Mifflin and one deputy.

From that humble beginning, the quartermaster corps, now headed by Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, has increased to several hundred thousand officers and men and is charged with one of the most complicated tasks of the armed forces.

Primarily the function of the quartermaster corps is to feed, clothe, and equip the army. Among the duties assigned the quartermaster corps are supplying the army with all motor vehicles except combat vehicles; operation of laundries; supply of gasoline and lubricating oils; procurement of horses and mules; operation of schools where more than 70 different trades are taught; design of uniforms, medals and insignia; storage and distribution of supplies; procurement and distribution of all the soldier's personal and individual equipment except arms; salvage or repair of materials; supervision of army and national cemeteries.

The quartermaster corps has handled considerable of the Lend-Lease work in the present war.

House's Summer Dress

Putting the house into its summer dress has always been one of the most joyous activities for the woman who takes pride in her home. The bright cottons and chintzes of the summer draperies and slip covers, the cool freshness of grass mats and rugs, the fresh crispness of cotton bedspreads and curtains seem attune to the season's rebirth. This year we need cheerful household decorations even more than we do in peaceful years, for they will help lift our spirits while our men folk are fighting and working for victory. We must continue to make good homes, clean homes, attractive homes, whether all the men of the family are on fighting fronts or whether they are making their contribution to victory in their own home towns.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Days for Gasocutor

Mondays through Thursdays have been designated as the official days on which dogs and cats may be sent to dog and cat heaven by way of the gasocutor at the incinerating plant, it was explained today by Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer of the Board of Public Works. This rule, he said, applied only to the summer months and was now in effect. Citizens should bear the days in mind and not bring their dogs and cats which they desire killed to the incinerator on Fridays, Saturdays or Sundays.

Receives Commission

Joseph F. Scheuerman, formerly of West Hurley and a graduate of the class of 1936 of Kingston High School, was commissioned a second lieutenant in Field Artillery, at Fort Sill, Okla., on July 21. His family now resides in Trenton, N. J., where Lieut. Scheuerman will spend a few days before leaving for a post in California.

Tulacz and Nekola Are Likely Starters for Tonight's Game

3,000 Are Expected To See Recreations Engage Bushwicks

Both Clubs Are at Full Strength for Contest at Stadium; Game Starts at 9 P. M.

It's baseball night in Kingston tonight when the famous Brooklyn Bushwicks, rated as the finest white semi-pro club on the field today, engage Manager Joe Hoffman's Kingston Recreations at the municipal stadium under the arc lights. Game time is slated for 9 o'clock.

Upwards of 3,000 fans are expected to file into the uptown ball park for this big attraction of the year and one that will be second only to the Boston Brave encounter here a couple of weeks hence. Fans are requested to come early to obtain choice seats. Besides the regular grandstand there will be extra bleachers in right field and along the third base foul line.

Tulacz Will Pitch
Manager Joe Hoffman has selected his veteran mound ace, Whitey Tulacz, of Poughkeepsie, to do the important job tonight. The stocky Pole has a grand record this year with superb victories over some of the best semi-pro talent of the day. He has won six straight games and is waxing confident of beating the vaunted Bushwicks. Joe Press, pilot of the Dexter Park club, hasn't released his mound starter as yet but it is likely that Frank "Bots" Nekola, the former New York Yankee farmhand, will be on the slab for the Woodhaven team. Bill Sahlin and Wally Signer are other possible starters.

Last night the local point-out that he saw in the cards that the Recs have the power to down the Dexter Park favorites. "We have a good sound ball club," said Manager Hoffman, "and I really think that we can take 'em providing Tulacz has a good night."

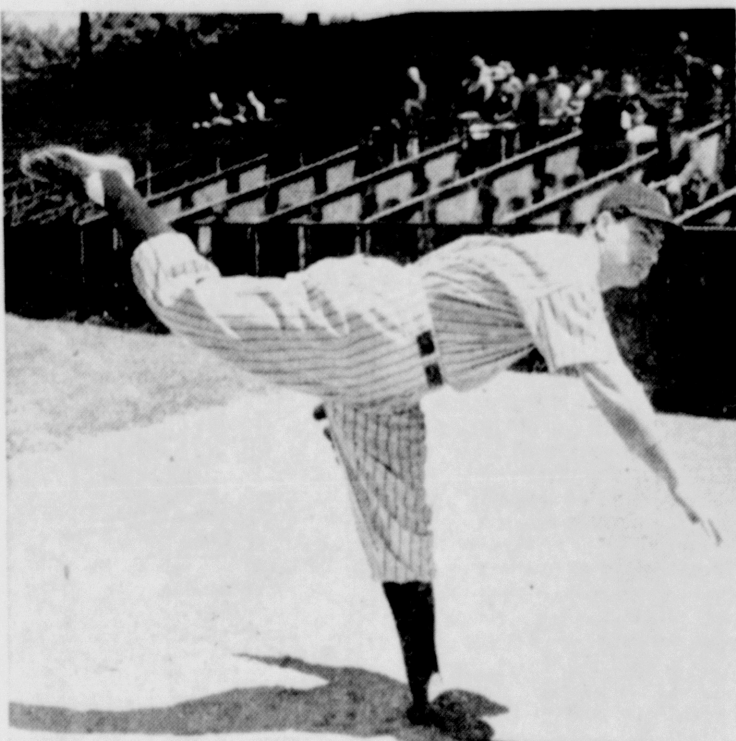

Hoffman undoubtedly is basing his statements in regard to the Recreation conquest over such clubs as the Black Yankees, Homestead Grays, Springfield Greys, the Cuban Stars and the like. These triumphs aren't to be sneezed at. The Recs have demonstrated their power in these tilts and are now waiting for the big clash with the Bushwicks.

Lucchi to Play
The local club will start off with the regular lineup of Ralph Coleman, Manny Gomez, Jimmy Girvan and Buddy Van Herpe. The picket line will have Ernie Downer, Tommy Maines and Angelo Lucchi. Speaking about Girvan, who has been having his troubles at third base lately, the Springfield Grey third sacker said Sunday night after the Long Island fray, "I just don't know what's the matter lately but take it from me, I'll be on my toes for that Bushwick engagement. This is one club we have to beat."

Max Rosner's Bushwicks, who have trimmed the Recs in three games this year and one out of two last year, will come here with a stronger team than that which appeared at the stadium in 1941. Through the draft and other sources the Recs have lost Danny McGee, Bunny Hearn and a few others. However, changes have improved the club despite the loss of these stars.

The infield of the Bushwicks is

With Bushwicks Tonight

WALLY SIGNER

Appearing with the famous Brooklyn Bushwicks at the municipal stadium tonight at 9 o'clock against Manager Joe Hoffman's Kingston Recreations, will be Wally Signer, one of the ace pitchers of the Dexter Park club. This year Signer has been used mostly as a "spot" pitcher and has turned in five victories. Signer is a Brooklyn boy and is one of the most popular players on the club. He isn't expected to start tonight's battle but may get around to see some action should Frank "Bots" Nekola find the going tough. No official announcement has been made as to the official starting pitcher for the Bushwicks but it is assumed that the former New York Yankee farmhand will get the assignment. Whitey Tulacz will be out to the twirling for the Recs and will be out to make it seven in a row for the year.

perhaps one of the finest and one that would make some big league pilots feel pretty happy. There will be Gene Rodgers on first, Al Cuccinello at second, Jimmy Del Savio at short and Howie Breslin at third, playing under the name of Jack Harrison. Tony DePhillips, ex-Kansas City Blue star and also formerly of Fordham University, is expected to do the catching.

There's also plenty of power in the outfield patrol of the Bushwicks with Jimmy Ashworth, Eddie Boland and Solly Mishkin. Boland is the former Philadelphia Phil fly-chaser. Should Nekola start tonight, the Dexters will have Ken Pine, Bob Fitzgerald, Bill Sahlin, Wally Signer and a number of others ready to step in should Nekola need any help.

New Dodger Coach

A new football coach for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League was announced last night when Michael James Getto, former Pittsburgh Panther All-American tackle, was signed to a contract. Getto, who was a star at John B. "Jock" Sutherland, who is now serving in the navy. Getto was an assistant to Sutherland for the Dodgers since 1940.

Medal Play Takes Spotlight Today In Tam O'Shanter

Chicago, July 23 (AP)—Without much doubt the most confused golf tournament in history, the Tam O'Shanter Open and Amateur, unlimited, proceeded, today into its fourth or completely unintelligible stage—the one just before they bring out the padded wagon and say, "Take it easy, pal, sure you're Napoleon."

On today's program, as someone explained it, was the first 18 holes of the Tam O'Shanter $15,000 medal play open. Also scheduled were two rounds of match play in the All-American Amateur championship, these being the third and fourth rounds of this particular championship. The man who explained this disappeared before his name was obtained, but his version may be taken as fairly authentic.

George S. May, president of Tam O'Shanter Club and the man who thought up all the strange events that have been taking place on its acreage this week, said that his general understanding of the situation, too, he would not, however, consent to being quoted directly.

Looking back somewhat dazedly upon everything that happened yesterday at Tam O'Shanter, several pictures popped into mind. Probably they didn't actually happen. They couldn't have, of course. Yet a conscientious reporter is supposed to set down something if he expects to keep his job.

Unbelievable Happenings
For instance, is anybody going to believe that Gus Moreland, who was a very well known amateur a few years ago, finished his "morning" match against John Phillips of Highland, Ind., at 4:17 p. m., and then, after inhaling a sandwich, went out to lose to Lieut. Dick Chapman? See what we mean?

And it is possible that Pat Abbott of Pasadena, Calif., the new Western Amateur champion, was knocked out in the first round of the amateur department by Gus Novotny of Chicago?

Or that seven professionals went out in virtual darkness to play off for the one qualifying berth remaining open in the $15,000 tournament, each of them having shot an 82 on his regular test?

It was a day, what with the amateurs battling each other all over the layout for 14 solid hours and a couple of hundred professionals trying to qualify when, and as, they found the first tee vacant.

In a close game all the way Fullers scored a 21 to 15 victory over the "Y" lasses last night in the Women's City Softball League. C. Perry, the Fuller catcher, connected for six hits in as many trips. Peggy Clousi blasted out four hits, a triple, two doubles and a singleton. Helen Gesses and C. Perry worked for the winners.

Cubs Buy Erickson
The Chicago Cubs purchased Dick Erickson, pitcher, from the Boston Braves today, for the waiver price of $2,500. Erickson, with the Braves for four seasons, has won two and lost five for the Hub team this year. The Cubs also have a pitcher with the club under the name of Paul Erickson.

LEADERS IN TAM-O-SHANTER GOLF

Johnny Holmstrom, (left) 21-year-old ex-captain of the University of Illinois golf team, and John Lehman, 35-year-old Chicago insurance salesman, led amateurs into match play in the Tam-O-Shanter golf meet at Chicago with qualifying scores of 143.

New Spirit Looms As Yale Gridders Hold Early Drills

New Haven, Conn., July 23 (AP)—Until very recently Yale football aspirants weren't even supposed to look seriously at a ball until September 15, but you'd never guess it to watch the lads in action under the broiling July sun that is currently baking these parts.

Right now it can be said with confidence that these lean, keen looking youths, who are getting leaner by the minute as they toil for the glory that once was Yale's, are going to be the most drilled squad Yale ever fielded.

Whether it also will be the best drilled squad, whether with the instruction now being lavished on it the 1942 team will have the stuff that its predecessors of '40 and '41 so mournfully lacked, whether, in short, Howie Odell, Yale's new youthful and likeable head coach is going to put a period to defeat, is another matter.

Light spring practice has been established at Yale for some time and it was held this year without benefit of a head coach. Then came Howie and, with the university launched on a war-time streamlined year-round program, he lost little time in calling the boys out for three weeks practice.

Now, believe it or not, his infectious enthusiasm has them trooping to the field ahead of time.

Ask Howie how things are going and he beams: "Fine, just fine. This squad is wonderful—couldn't be better."

Odell was reminded that more than one grandstand quarterback, watching Yale drop 14 of its last 16 games, had charged that Yale players not only were inept, but didn't care—weren't especially interested in playing football.

"I don't have to refute that," said Odell, "just look out there." "Out there" was the practice field sweltering under the July sun. Practice was not due to start for half an hour, but fully 90 per cent of the squad of 80 was on hand. Backs were kicking and passing, linemen were practicing charging and blocking, two or three groups were running through formations. No horsplay. Just football, serious football.

"When you can get kids to come out like that you've got something," Odell remarked.

Odell said the summer practice would be even more helpful to him and his assistants, all newly engaged, than to the players themselves.

Victory Bowlers Roll at 6:45 P. M.

Change to Allow Keglers to Attend Rec Game

Members of the Victory Bowling League are requested to note that tonight's matches at the Central Recreation alleys will start at 6:45 o'clock instead of the usual 8 o'clock hour.

This change has been made so that the bowlers may attend the Recreation — Bushwick baseball game at the municipal stadium at 9 o'clock. Jake Senor, secretary, also has announced that the matches for Thursday, August 6, will be held at 6:45 o'clock so that the bowlers may attend the Rec-Boston Brave exhibition that night.

Ponckhockie Wins

The Ponckhockie Recs scored a 4 to 0 victory over the Junior All Stars Wednesday morning. Billy Sinspaugh and Johnny Alecca worked for the winners. Mike Reinzo and Sammy Machelin formed the losing batters. Batting stars of the game were Alecca, Arnold Castle, Francis Buchanan and Jack Blanchan.

Glascio Tops Lilies

At Hasbrouck Park last night Glascio scored a 4 to 1 victory over the Swamp Lilies in a regular City Baseball League encounter. Frankie Ferraro outpitched Dory Williams. Glascio, losing by 1-0 until the top of the fifth, pushed across four big runs to win the contest. Ferraro limited the losers to two hits while Glascio found the offerings of Williams for six.

Forty of the 92 police of Pretoria, South Africa, were mysteriously poisoned at a meal at a police depot and had to go to the hospital.

Yankees Stretch Margin; DiMaggio Streak Snapped

Fans Are Now Puzzled by Slumps of Red Sox and Tigers;
Laabs Homers

(By The Associated Press)

All the people who for weeks devoted themselves industriously to trying to solve the slump of the New York Yankees probably are busy now figuring out reasons for the sliding of the Boston Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers.

This is a thankless task, but nevertheless a form of endeavor in which there never is any unemployment. Somebody always is in a slump and the Yankees have it bad. Boston has lost four in a row and nine of its last 11 games while Detroit has dropped 11 out of 14 and has fallen from the first division.

The Red Sox were shut out 2-0 yesterday by Lee (Buck) Ross of the Chicago White Sox although they made the magnificent total of five hits, one more than Chicago collected off Broadway Charley Wagner. However, one of Chicago's blows was a two-run double by Luke Appling in the sixth inning.

The Tigers were tamed 2-1 by the Washington Senators on the five-hit hurling of Sid Hudson. Here again the winners were kept in check by the losing pitcher, Washington getting just eight hits off Tommy Bridges, but one of them was a two-run homer by Roy Cullenbine.

Meanwhile the New York Yankees squeezed to their 11th consecutive victory and extended their American League lead to 12 full games by blasting across four unearned runs in the tenth inning to beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1.

DiMaggio Stopped

Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak was stopped at 18 games by Lefty Al Milnar, but Rollie Hemsey made four hits, including two doubles, and Charley Keller hit his 12th home run. This was the time chapter.

Yanks' only score till the over-

Then with two out, Tom Henrich singled, DiMaggio was walked and Oscar Grimes, finishing the game at shortstop after Manager Lou Boudreau had removed himself for a pinch runner, booted a grounder by Joe Gordon and followed with a wild throw to the plate to let Henrich score. Keller was purposely passed to load the bases, Phil Rizzuto singled and Hemsey doubled.

Atley Donald's nine-hit hurling was bolstered by four double plays as the Yanks boosted their total to 125 for 91 games.

The St. Louis Browns blew a 6-0 lead attained in the first four frames and lost an 11-8 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics, Sparked by Chet Laabs' 18th circuit clout, the Browns scored five runs in the fourth. Then the A's scored six in the fifth inning to tie the score and kept on rolling. They made 16 hits and St. Louis 12.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers disposed of the Cincinnati Reds without trouble, 5-1, with Kirby Higbe pitching five-hit ball and he and his teammates tagging Ray Starr and Gene Thronson for twice that many. Higbe himself drove in two runs with a double in the sixth.

This kept the Dodgers six and a half games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who slammed out a 7-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phils, who were unable to score on 10 hits off Johnny Beazley.

The Chicago Cubs evened their score with the Boston Braves in the day's other game as Claude Passeau pitched a masterful two-hitter for a 2-1 verdict. It was Passeau's 14th triumph of the year. Boston's only run resulted from an error by Bill Nicholson, who muffed a fly by Max West with two on and two out in the seventh. Chicago had scored on three singles in the fourth and Nicholson redeemed himself with a triple in the ninth after Lou Novikoff had hit his fourth single.

Ray Billows Wins Opening Round in Amateur Tourney

Defending Champ From Poughkeepsie Clips Three Strokes Off With 67 Score

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 23 (AP)—Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, defending champion who is seeking his fifth state title, easily won his first-round match in the New York state amateur golf tournament today by conquering Joe Bionson of Syracuse, 7 and 5.

Ray carded a 34, one under par on his first nine, and was two under when the match ended on the 13th green.

Clarence Grainger of Niagara Falls upset Ed Bodnarz, western New York public links champion, 1 up.

Billows clipped three strokes from the Niagara Falls Country Club course yesterday in annexing medal honors with 67.

Miss Gish to Return

Hollywood, July 23 (AP)—Lillian Gish will return to motion pictures after 11 years. Miss Gish, star of the silent days and long a leading stage actress, signed to play in "The Commandos Come at Dawn." She left for Victoria, B. C., to join Paul Muni and other cast members. Her last picture was made in 1931.

To Rebroadcast Speech

Washington, July 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull's report on the progress of the war over the four major radio networks at 9:30 p. m., Eastern War Time, tonight will be rebroadcast by N.B.C. in nine languages.

Effect of War On Prayers

Gallup, N. M., (AP)—World War II has brought a new worry to the medicine men of New Mexico's ancient Zuni Indian Pueblo. Preparations are going forward for supplications to the gods for rain for their crops and for all crops in general, but the cucuques fear that the diety may be slow in answering their prayers as long as the world is at war.

He Has Requested a Reputation

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—A man who called at the Arkansas parole board office had the right idea but was a bit mixed up in his terminology. Addressing parole officer J. S. Pollard, he said: "Cap'n, I want to get my reputation fixed up." The man a parolee, had a war industry job and to hold it he was required to get a restoration of citizenship, or full pardon.

AUTO WIZARD NEEDED

Because he was acquainted with millions of spare parts for automobiles, a reservist sought to be deferred in Auckland, New Zealand, and his firm backed him up. As evidence the firm submitted the catalogue descriptions of 4,000,000 spare parts for one make of motor vehicles. The number of parts was the result of changes in models between 1929 and 1941.

Twenty thousand acres in Panama and Costa Rica will be planted to abaca to make up for the Manila hemp shortages.

Put Electric Eyes On Coastline Duty

Device to Detect Ships or Planes 100 Miles Away.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary Stimson says that the army is installing along the nation's coastlines new "electric eye" detection devices capable of reducing the surprise element of enemy raids by locating planes or ships more than a hundred miles away.

He said the device was developed by the army signal corps and was making a major contribution to the defense of the country.

The secretary said that the signal corps now plays one of the most important roles in the war. "They are very busy in our schools studying radio, electronics, and the application of radio to our new system of detection—what you might call the electric eye—which can see a hundred miles or more as day and through fog and clouds to locate enemy vessels and planes," Mr. Stimson said.

"They are also at work in laboratories on new applications, in the true American way, of things other people never thought of, and with good prospects, I think, of success."

Mr. Stimson said he looked through one of the new warning instruments on a recent inspection visit of a signal corps station and "saw the electrical indication of a plane which I believe was 60 miles away."

To meet the huge demands for technicians, Mr. Stimson said the signal corps school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., is now training 14,000 men in its laboratories, and plans to take in 1,000 candidates for officers monthly during the coming year for three-month training courses.

Find Back Bay's First Codfish Aristocrats

ANDOVER, MASS.—Discovery of the "Boylston Street Fishweir" in Boston's Back Bay section provided evidence of "the most ancient existence of man" that has appeared in eastern North America, scientists reported.

The antiquity of the fishweir has been established as about 3,600 years, thus dating from approximately 1700 B. C., according to a report by Frederick Johnson of the Robert S. Peabody foundation for archeology of Phillips academy, and 11 collaborating scientists.

(A fishweir is a dam or "fence" on stakes set in a stream to trap fish.)

The fishweir was found in August, 1939, as a 40-foot excavation was being dug for a life insurance building on the site of a Boston university building.

Hand-sharpened stakes, averaging four to five feet in length, were found upright with their points imbedded in a stratum of hard blue clay, 32 feet below street level, and covered by 14 feet of silt and peat and 18 feet of fill.

We're All Sick of War, Nazi Soldier Tells Russ

MOSCOW.—The Soviet information bureau quoted a German war prisoner, Ernst Friedrich of the 36th infantry division, recently in these words:

"Red army men broke into our dugout. Not one of the 11 men who were there offered any resistance and we all surrendered."

"Everybody is sick of this war which became so protracted. In the winter it was cold and we all froze. Now it is spring and we lay in open fields of mud and cold water."

"The soldiers now are concentrating on only one thought—when will the war end? The very idea of another winter in Russia is abhorrent to everyone."

"No force on earth could make soldiers live once more through such terror as they experienced last winter."

Too Busy in Red Cross to Go to Reno, Sends Mate

RENO.—George L. Degener Jr., New York broker whose wife was too busy with her Red Cross work to come to Reno, came here himself and was granted a divorce from the former Nouchette Porges.

"He wasn't as busy in Wall street as I am with the Red Cross, so he is going to Reno," Mrs. Degener explained in New York six weeks ago.

"I am a volunteer driver and it keeps me pretty busy. Anyway, you never can tell when an emergency will arise. If it does come, I won't be of much help if I am in Reno."

Degener established Nevada residence at a near-by dude ranch and in filing for a divorce charged his wife with extreme cruelty.

Reds Use New Sight For Night Bombing

KUJIBYSHEV.—A new night bombing sight that may be of importance in aerial warfare is being used by the Red air force, the Russian press reported.

Red Star dispatches from the Baltic fleet said that naval assault planes destroyed 17 Junkers and Messerschmitts on the ground at a Baltic airport.

VENEZUELA MAKES TIRES

Auto tires are being manufactured in a Chicago plant from rubber received from Brazil and Ecuador, according to reports from Caracas, Venezuela. The rubber supply was said to have been enough for 20,000 tires with 180 tons coming from Brazil.

Peter Helps Vacationist

Lake Placid, N. Y., July 23 (AP)—Youthful King Peter of Yugoslavia came to the rescue of an elderly vacationist, helplessly adrift in a rowboat on an upper Adirondack Mountain lake, it was learned today. The 19-year-old exiled monarch, who left this resort last night after an incognito visit, was rowing a guideboat on Mirror Lake when the incident occurred. The vacationist, who remained anonymous, had lost both oars overboard and was becoming panicky when the king and an aide de camp took the boat in tow and brought it and its occupant safely ashore.

Fair and Dinner

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Ashokan Methodist Churches announces its annual fair and Virginia baked ham dinner Tuesday from 2 p. m. on. There will be booths with fancy articles, food, soft drinks and amusements for all ages. Dinner will be served at 6 and there will be music during the evening. Contests will be held in the afternoon at 3.

Apple Crop Looks Well

New Brunswick, N. J., July 23 (AP)—A bountiful crop of New Jersey apples, of "especially good" size and quality, is forecast by Arthur J. Farley, professor of pomology at Rutgers University. The 1942 yield, Farley said, would approximate 3,000,000 bushels or nearly 20 per cent more than in 1941.
